TARIFF SLASHED ON COTTON GOODS BY DEMOCRATS

Third of the Big Revision Measures Passes House by Vote of 202 to 91.

21 PER CENT REDUCTION MADE IN COTTON TARIFF

Thirty G. O. P. Insurgents Voted With the Democrats. Bitter Attack on the Bill By Regular Republicans, Who Allege That Southern Mills Are Favored.

Washington, August 3.—Supported by all the democrats and by thirty insurgent republicans, the democratic cotton tariff bill, the third of the big tariff revision measures brought forward by the democratic house of representatives, passed that body early this evening by 202 to 91. The bill cuts the average tariff on cotton manufactured goods from 48 to 27 per cent ad valorem, a 21 per cent reduction in duty that the democratic leaders estimate to reduce revenues by about $3,000,000.

Not an amendment was offered to the bill, although the republicans attacked it vigorously on account of alleged increases in certain items over the rates of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

Conference on Free List Bill.

Scarcely had the cheers that greeted the passage of the cotton revision bill subsided when Democratic Leader Underwood, calling up the free list bill as it passed the senate a few days ago, accomplished a strategic move, which surprised the republicans.

He asked for a conference on all the amendments to the free list bill except that of Senator Gronna, of North Dakota, putting cement on the free list. He urged that the house accept that amendment, adding to it lemons. Pacific coast republicans made ineffectual attempts to stop this sudden and unexpected putting of lemons on the free list, but the amendment carried. The change gave the house democrats what they claimed to be an added advantage in dealing with the senate in the conference committee.

Tonight the republican leaders in both houses of congress called absent members from all parts of the country, in preparation for a threatened attempt of the democrats to pass the wool tariff bill over President Taft's veto.

Wool Tariff Over Taft's Veto.

The democratic leaders in the house have asserted within the last twenty-four hours that they have the necessary two-thirds majority to pass the wool bill over the president's veto, and have been doing effective missionary work in the senate today. The republican managers in the house insist tonight that they have enough votes to prevent the two-thirds majority in support of the wool bill.

The wool conference will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the committees of the house and senate will meet in the effort to effect a compromise. It is possible that the compromise can be secured at one sitting of the committee, in which case the bill will come back to the two houses tomorrow or Saturday. Speaker Clark tonight appointed as a conference committee on the free list bill, the same conferees who will act on the wool bill Representatives Underwood, Randall, of Texas, and Harrison, of New York, democrats; Payne and Dalzell, republicans.

BRYAN REPLIES TO UNDERWOOD

Nebraskan Tells Why He Attacked Democratic Leader.

Bryan Says He Based Criticism of Underwood on Newspaper Reports of the Latter's Attitude in Democratic Caucus. Bryan After Underwood.

Chicago, August 3.—Voluntarily assuming full responsibility for the editorial recently published in his weekly paper which caused Congressman Underwood, of Alabama, to brand him as "falsifier" on the floor of congress, William Jennings Bryan today replied to the attack and declared that he intended to give the democratic leader of the house an early opportunity to discuss some other things.

Where Bryan Got Information.

Mr. Bryan granted Congressman Underwood's request that he make public the information on which the editorial was based. He declared that the information of which the editorial was founded was taken from a Washington dispatch published by an Omaha newspaper.

"If that report is incorrect," said Mr. Bryan, "I take it for granted that Mr. Underwood will read the report before the house and deny it.

"If the report is correct, I have nothing to withdraw. If it is erroneous I shall withdraw my criticism of Mr. Underwood so far as it is based on his action in that particular case. Whatever the outcome in this particular instance I do not withdraw my criticism of Mr. Underwood on other occasions, and I intend to take early opportunity to give him some other things to discuss.

"Yes, I read the report of Mr. Underwood's speech in the morning papers," said Mr. Bryan, "the criticism to which he refers is contained in an editorial which I wrote myself.

Underwood and the Caucus.

"The report on which the editorial was based," continued Mr. Bryan, "appeared last week after the house caucus of July 15.

"I am not sure of the exact date, but it was not earlier than Wednesday of last week and not later than Sunday morning. The dispatch from Washington said that Speaker Clark offered a resolution—a modification or a sub for a resolution by another member—instructing the ways and means committee to proceed with the preparation of other bills. The dispatch stated that Mr. Clark was supported by a number of members, but that Representatives Underwood and Fitzgerald led a fight against the resolution and defeated it.

"The report also quoted Congressman Kitchin as insisting upon the introduction of a bill reducing the tariff upon iron and steel and quotes Mr. Kitchin as calling attention to Mr. Underwood's holdings in the steel company and as expressing the fear that in case of failure to proceed with the reduction of the tariff on iron and steel such failure might be attributed to Mr. Underwood's interests in the business. My editorial was based upon this published report."

Mr. Bryan was in the city between trains and is now on his way to Iowa.

Underwood Retracts Nothing.

Washington, August 3.—Democratic Leader Underwood, of the house, stood squarely today upon his answer to William Jennings Bryan's attack on him in connection with the iron and steel tariff schedules. He had little comment to make upon Mr. Bryan's interview in Chicago today in which the Nebraskan again challenged his position.

"Mr. Bryan says I ought to give a full report of the caucus to the house," said Mr. Underwood. "I did give such a report yesterday and my statements were confirmed by the other members of my party as to what took place in the caucus. I have not seen the newspaper dispatch upon which Mr. Bryan based his criticism of me, but judging from his statements it did not agree with the facts."

Mr. Underwood would not discuss Mr. Bryan's declaration that he had other points of differences with him."

Underwood Whole Thing, Says Mann.

Washington, August 3.—Republican Leader Mann, in the house of representatives today, twitted the democrats over the Underwood-Bryan incident of yesterday. He declared apparently Mr. Underwood was now the "whole thing" and that William Jennings Bryan had not a single defender in the house.

"When Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, in parliamentary language, called Mr. Bryan a liar," said Mr. Mann, "not a man rose in this house to protest.

"Oscar W. Underwood is not only the leader of the democratic majority; he is the majority. He is not only the

COURT ABOLITION GOES TO PEOPLE

Senate to Leave Question to Citizens of Cordele.

Amendment, Providing for This, Is Adopted by Vote of 21 to 18, After Lengthy Debate---Governor Wilson Declines Invitation.

The senate expended more than an hour and a half yesterday on the question of whether or not the city court of Cordele should be abolished by the legislature or the matter left in the hands of the people.

The bill, which was passed in the house several days ago, provoked a lively discussion in the senate, and was finally passed as amended by the special judiciary committee of the senate.

The amendment provides that the bill shall go before the people before becoming effective, and was passed by a vote of 21 to 18.

Immediately after the passage of the bill Senator Williams, whose home is in Crisp county, and who bitterly fought the amendment, gave notice that he would ask to have the bill reconsidered today.

The author of the bill is Mr. Gower, of Crisp county, and it was passed in the house without amendments. When the bill came before the special judiciary committee of the senate, of which Senator Mann, of the fifteenth district, is chairman, the amendment requiring the bill to be placed before the people was offered and recommended by the committee. The question was discussed for some time in the committee meeting, citizens of Cordele and attorneys speaking for and against the bill.

Two Petitions Presented.

Senator Mann showed a petition which had been presented to the committee signed by more than 500 citizens of Cordele who favored abolishment of the court. He showed another petition bearing 750 names in favor of retaining the court.

Many argued that out of "senatorial courtesy" to Senator Williams the bill should not be opposed, but allowed to be passed as he wished. There were others who said that the bill was of such a general nature that if passed the senate would establish a precedent which could not be easily forsaken.

Senators Duggan and Douglass obtained unanimous consent to be excused from voting.

The invitation of the general assembly to Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, to address the legislature during the present session was formally declined yesterday in a letter to the secretary of the senate, Charles S. Northen.

Governor Wilson's Letter.

The following is a copy of Governor Wilson's letter:

"Hon. Charles S. Northen, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: Allow me to acknowledge your kind letter of July 29, transmitting the resolution of the senate of the state of Georgia, concurred in by the house of representatives, inviting me to address the two houses of the legislature at some time before the 16th of August.

"I do not know of any invitation I have ever received which has been so hard to decline. I felt obliged to decline it because to accept it would involve an actual neglect of my imperative official duties at home. It is a case where I have to prefer my duty to my personal inclination. It would be considered inexcusable on my part were I to absent myself from the state while the duties that bind me throughout the greater part of August lie upon me. My continual presence in the state is necessary.

"May I not convey, through you, to the gentlemen of the two houses of the legislature of Georgia, my profound thanks for the great and high honor they have done me and my deep regret that it is not possible for me to give myself the pleasure of returning under such auspicious circumstances, to the great state in which I spent my boyhood, and to which I look back with so much and so deep affection.

"With much regard,

"WOODROW WILSON."

Senator Harris' resolution requesting Governor Smith to leave for the United States senate at once was not reached in the regular order of business. It will probably be considered today.

The following bills were passed:

NEW BLOODHOUNDS ARE NOW ON THE JOB

Their profession is to scent trouble.

Eight new young bloodhounds are now being trained to hunt down Fulton county's criminals, and the keenness which they have already shown in practice runs indicates that it will be an easy job for them to track down a real fugitive when the time comes. They are now only 3 months old, but are being given practice hunts nearly every day.

With the blood of "Old Troup," Fulton's star man-trailer, who has made a wide reputation by his sagacious hunts, as an initial advantage, the baby bloodhounds are rapidly learning how to apply their canine talents, and they will become excellent four-footed officers for the county.

They are fine looking little pups, with ears that measure about a foot and three inches from tip to tip, and their eyes are full of keen intelligence.

Officer Shockley, who has the young hounds in charge, talks to them as though they were real people and vows that the county has never had a finer set of man-trailers.

The neighborhood around the Thrower building was thrown somewhat into a commotion Thursday when all of the eight young hounds, led by "Old Troup," started up a prolonged baying. Windows flew up and men, women and children came running, thinking perhaps that the dogs were on a trail. When they found that the hounds were to have their pictures made by The Constitution's photographer, the crowd in no degree lost its curiosity, but remained to watch the strenuous efforts that were being made to get the bloodhounds to pose pleasantly.

Chief Zach Rowan values the three-months-old hounds at $100 a pair.

MACON BATTLES TO GET CAPITOL

Committee Passes Central City's Claims to House.

Several Members Vote for Favorable Report in Courtesy to Macon, But Reserve the Right to Vote Against in the house.

By an almost unanimous vote, the house committee on constitutional amendments approved the bill making provision for the removal of the state capitol to Macon yesterday afternoon. Several members who voted favorably reserved the right to oppose the measure on the floor of the house, taking the ground that the matter should be permitted to reach the floor out of courtesy to the Central City.

Joe Hill Hall and Minter Wimberly, representatives from Bibb county, spoke for the removal. Their argument, briefly stated, was that Macon is more centrally located, both as to geography and population; that south Georgia is growing more rapidly than other sections of the state, and that Atlanta doesn't need the capitol, etc.

The only note of opposition was sounded by Mr. McElreath, representative from Fulton. With all due respect to the Central City, he said, he thought it would be best for all concerned to end the matter in committee.

"We don't want any sectional strife, any feeling between north and south Georgia," he said. "We are friendly now; we are enjoying more cordial relations than ever before; all the state is growing; and, therefore, we should do nothing to foment useless strife."

He declared that Macon's geographical advantages have been overrated. He said that the difference in mileage to members of the legislature in going to Macon or Atlanta was only about $800 a year in favor of the latter city. He declared that the distance from county sites to Macon, by the nearest railroads, showed that city to be nearer than Atlanta to the people of the state by only a fraction more than eighteen miles.

"Don't you think the influence of a big city on a legislature is bad?" someone asked.

This was the beginning of a discussion that soon grew from the facetious to the humorous, and wound up in what many took to be a courtesy vote in favor of Macon.

BRAIN NOT SOLD, STATES TEACHER

Miss Parrish Says No Such Deal Was Even Contemplated.

Alas, for the excitement and interest occasioned by the story that Miss Celeste S. Parrish, former teacher of pedagogy of the state normal school at Athens, had sold her brain for $40,000. All the wonder and agitation over the transaction were wasted, says Miss Parrish, who in a letter to The Constitution has unequivocally denied any such business deal.

"There was absolutely no foundation in fact for the story," says Miss Parrish. "I was never approached with regard to selling my brain, and have never sold it. No scientist ever examined my brain or remarked upon it. I have no such memory as is imputed to me."

MINISTER IS ARRESTED BY SON OF HIS DEACON

From Alpharetta, where he preached last year to over 2,000 people and baptized 25 converts in one morning, a warrant came to the police station yesterday for the arrest of R. J. Huff, 37 years old, a Baptist minister, who has been living in Winder. He was locked up last night by Officer J. E. McDaniel, whose father was for many years a deacon in Rev. Huff's church at Lilburn. The warrant charges cheating and swindling, but details of it are not known.

"You never had a man behind these bars who had a clearer conscience than myself, and I feel that the Lord is with me here as He would be in my church," said the minister. "I don't know who has sworn out the warrant, and I certainly know of nothing that could have caused it."

He explained that necessity had forced him to supplement his income by borrowing some money, which he secured in three notes from three men at Alpharetta. These came due (the total was less than $100) when he was ill with appendicitis in Macon, and he made full explanation of his inability to meet them. Whether these have caused his arrest he could not say.

Rev. Huff has been living in Atlanta for a few weeks, engaged in soliciting work since the failure of his health and his retirement from the ministry. His family still live at Russell, 3 miles from Winder, where they are next-door neighbors to "Dick" Russell, candidate for governor.

It was provided that the subcommittee should consist of eleven members, one from each of the present congressional districts, with Chairman Hall representing the state-at-large, or the proposed twelfth district.

The subcommittee appointed by Mr. Hall is as follows: Mr. Anderson, of Chatham, for the first district; Mr. Bower, of Decatur, for the second; Mr. Adkins, of Dooly, for the third; Mr. Wohlwender, of Musoogee, for the fourth; Mr. Field, of DeKalb, for the fifth; Mr. Smith, of Henry, for the sixth; Mr. Cheney, of Cobb, for the seventh; Mr. DuBose, of Clarke, for the eighth; Mr. Nix, of Gwinnett, for the ninth; Mr. Burwell of Hancock, for the tenth; Mr. White, of Laurens, for the eleventh.

The subcommittee will hold a meeting Friday afternoon and will proceed rapidly with the preparation of its report to the whole committee.

LEADER UNDERWOOD LAMENTS TIE VOTE ON THE FREE LIST BILL

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, August 3.—(Special.)—Oscar Underwood, leader of democratic house, says of the action of the senate in emasculating the free meat and free bread provisions of the house bill:

"While the house may finally yield, if it is unable to restore in conference the provisions placing meats of all kinds, and grain of all kinds on free list, it will be from necessity and not from choice.

"It recalls the Bible story of the man who asked for bread and was given a stone," said Mr. Underwood.

"We put meats and flour on the free list. The senate struck them out and added Portland cement. OF ALL THE PROVISIONS OF THE BILL, I WAS MOST ANXIOUS TO SEE THE CONSUMERS OF THE COUNTRY GIVEN THE BENEFIT OF FREE MEATS AND FREE GRAIN. If I finally yield, it will be because I want the other features of the bill enacted into law, and not because I think the senate has improved the house bill."

now in shape to come up for a third reading and final consideration. This might happen, by some rare turn of events, tomorrow; or on Monday or Tuesday of next week. It all depends upon maneuvering. If it does reach a vote—

It will be passed by a substantial majority in the house.

But before it reaches a vote—

The whole prohibition question will be opened and passed on again.

The friends of the bill insist that they will leave nothing undone calculated to force the measure to final passage. They won Thursday but more fighting is ahead.

The division Thursday showed a difference in the house practically the same as existed when the prohibition bill was enacted into law in 1907. It was 130 for consideration of the bill and 36 against. Practically all who voted in the negative are opposed to the measure; several opponents, believing filibustering tactics should not be used, are known to have voted with the affirmative. However, it was shown distinctly that a majority of the house is for the Tippins bill limiting all drinks sold as beverages, or capable of being used as beverages, to one-half of one per cent of alcohol—the federal test.

Debate Is Enlivened.

The debate Thursday was enlivened by numerous dramatic incidents. Perhaps the most striking occurred near the end, when Representative Hatton Lovejoy, chairman of the temperance committee, charged that the rules committee of the house is "predominated by liquor men." Later he explained that he meant a majority of the committee is opposed to the Tippins bill and wants it killed. He averred later that he meant no reflection on Speaker John Holder, in that he had intended no reference to the previous attitude of the members of that committee.

It is unlikely that the issue will be thrust upon the house again Friday. A bill completely revising the fertilizer laws has been fixed for special order. It would take a three-fourths vote to change that.

However, there is virtually no other measure scheduled as special order. Some salary bills are fixed, but it is said they will come up later as unfinished business.

Therefore, it is not unlikely that an effort will be made to spin out the discussion of the special order measure, in order to delay the taking up of other business.

The first bill on the calendar is the Tippins measure. The appropriation bill is master. Whenever the chairman of the committee which has it in charge demands, it must be taken up and considered continuously until disposed of. It will be called up Monday or Tuesday. After its consideration begins it will be impossible for the house to dispose of the Tippins bill in time for the senate to take action.

If it does come up, its opponents are ready with a substitute—throwing open the entire prohibition question. They will focus their fight for the Hall plan, legalizing beer saloons and "package houses."

The routine work incident to the opening of Thursday's session concluded, the struggle over the Tippins bill began.

Debate on Measure.

Mr. Hardeman, of Jefferson, and Mr. Alexander rose almost simultaneously. The latter got the speaker's ear and was recognized.

"Mr. Speaker, I move that today's session be extended for the purpose of reading house bills which have been favorably reported a second time," he said. "I desire to be heard on that motion."

Mr. Anderson, of Chatham, rose to a point of order. He did not think such a motion could be made at that time.

The speaker failed to sustain the point. It might be stated, in explanation, that only by an extension of the session could there have been any reasonable hope for obtaining a second reading of the Tippins bill. The rules committee having reported against the Fullbright resolution making the reading a special order for Friday, any other attempt to call it up would have had to receive a three-fourths vote to succeed.

There is no rule on extension of sessions but the precedent is that the same may be done by a majority vote.

"We have reached a time when a sharp issue must be drawn," said Mr. Alexander. "I appeal to the fairness and the patriotism of this house, to the spirit of men who are law-abiding.

"Symptoms disclosed here yesterday gave clear warning of an attempt to prevent the second reading of one bill now on the desk."

He appealed to those opposed to the bill in question to permit it to reach a vote.

He did not hesitate to say that filibustering tactics by the opposition would be met by similar measures from the bill's advocates.

Other Bills Ready.

"There are other bills on the calendar ready for second reading," said the gentleman from DeKalb. "At this point the progress of this house stops unless provision is made for reading these bills and none can be read to the exclusion of the first on the list."

As soon as Mr. Alexander took his seat, Mr. Anderson, of Chatham, gained recognition. He spoke against the extension of the session and by a speech extending over more than an hour, made it evident that a filibuster was still depended on to keep the Tippins bill in the closet.

He discussed various phases of the liquor question and under a patent humorousness affected the greatest of seriousness.

Efforts were made to stop him on the ground that he was not speaking to the subject in question, but the speaker held that he was within the rules.

His speech carried the session to 10:40. He yielded the floor. Immaterial amendments were offered by Mr. Fullbright, of Burke, and Mr. Ashley, of Lowndes. Neither was for delay.

Calls Previous Question.

Mr. Lovejoy, chairman of the temperance committee, called the previous question.

"I call the ayes and nays," cried Mr. Bower, of Decatur. The vote was 25 to 78; one-fifth having so voted the call was sustained.

Members were not allowed to explain their votes on calling the main question, but the roll call extended the session beyond 11 o'clock.

The main question was called by a vote of 126 to 31.

Then the amendment of Mr. Fullbright, of Burke, was placed before the house. It changed Mr. Alexander's motion from "one o'clock" to the "adjournment of the regular session." This had the effect of so arranging that in case the regular hour of adjournment came in the midst of an aye and nay vote on the real issue the session would still be extended for the purpose desired.

An aye and nay vote was called on the Fullbright amendment. It won by 129 to 33.

Under the rules the Alexander motion as amended by Mr. Fullbright was next in order. This brought forth the main test of strength.

Mr. Anderson, of Chatham, led off the explanations of voters. He thought there should be some limit on the time of the extension.

Mr. Alexander, of DeKalb, said if the motion were adopted the house could adjourn any time it wished.

In explaining his vote, Mr. Hardeman said he felt justified in assisting in a tactical fight on the bill, in view of the fact that its friends seemed bent on putting it upon the house by main force.

"Convince me that we will have money to meet the appropriations we need, and I will support this bill," he said. "It may be blood money, but under the existing status we need it to pay pensions, support the schools and meet other appropriations."

Mr. Jones, of Meriwether, explained that while he opposes the Tippins bill, he believed it should be permitted to come to a vote.

Alexander Motion Wins.

The Alexander motion won, and there was no necessity for putting forth the Ashley amendment.

At the conclusion of the roll call Mr. Adkins, of Dooly, arose to a question of personal privilege, and declared that before the voting began the author of the motion (Mr. Alexander) had approached his seat and said, "Vote aye."

"I resent that," said Mr. Adkins. "I can cast my own votes. In 1907 I voted on every roll call for prohibition. I intend to vote against whisky or beer all my life, but I need no assistance. I resent, and will always resent, any effort to vote me."

The most dramatic feature of the day occurred here.

"I move to reconsider the action of the house on this motion," declared Mr. Garlington, of Richmond.

Point of Order Raised.

A point of order was raised. Ordinarily such a motion could not be made till the day following.

"I call for the ayes and nays," said Mr. Lawrence, of Chatham. The call was sustained.

Mr. Anderson was on his feet in a moment.

"Mr. Speaker"—he said.

Things were getting interesting.

The other side thought they had been napping.

"Mr. Speaker, I call the previous question," called Mr. Alexander.

"The motion is debatable and the gentleman from Chatham has the floor," replied the speaker.

The minority seemed to have the situation in hand—gripped, as it appeared.

A laugh rang through the hall. Usually all necessary to have prevented a second reading would have been for Mr. Anderson to hold the floor until 1 o'clock, the regular hour of adjournment.

The situation was so extraordinary that Speaker Holder grabbed his rule book, turned the gavel over to Mr. Vinson, speaker pro tem., and hurried to his private office for meditation.

Meantime Mr. Anderson proceeded to speak, seriously so far as appearances went, but his remarks were taken facetiously.

Returning, Speaker Holder stopped the merriment by ruling on the situation confronting the house.

He held that the motion to reconsider would be a continuous order; that the fixed hour of adjournment would not count.

This was like a blow in the face of the antis. When the speaker concluded, a subdued cheer broke forth.

"I am through," said Mr. Anderson as he took his seat amid laughter.

Motion Voted Down.

The motion to reconsider was voted down, the ayes and nays being abandoned. Fifty minutes remained for general work.

However, the war was resumed at once. The report of the rules committee was read fixing the bill reforming the fertilizer laws as special order No. 1 and a bill raising the near-beer tax from $300 to $500 as special order No. 2.

Mr. Alexander asked if a session could be held Saturday. The speaker replied that an invitation to go to Macon had been accepted.

He opposed the proposed special order for the near-beer tax bill.

He said he saw no use of discussing the near-beer tax before the fate of near-beer was determined.

Mr. Hardeman, vice chairman of the rules committee, defended the report attacked by Mr. Alexander.

"I do not wonder why the gentleman from Dooly felt called upon to resent the attitude of the gentleman from DeKalb," said Mr. Hardeman, "in view of the dictatorial position he assumes with regard to the whole house."

Springs Another Sensation.

"Don't you know that the liquor people predominate the rules committee and want to kill this bill?" asked Mr. Lovejoy, of Troup.

This was resented by Mr. Hardeman. Joe Hill Hall, a member of the committee, resented the Lovejoy statement even more strenuously. Rising to question of personal privilege he said nine of the twelve members on the rules committee had fought for the prohibition bill in 1907.

Mr. Slade, of Muscogee, another member of the rules committee, rose to a question of personal privilege. He said he had made a record as an opponent of prohibition but denied that he was for liquor or beer.

Later, Mr. White, of Screven, arose and said any intimation that he was controlled by whisky or beer interests was false.

The near-beer tax bill was erased from the list of special orders; the fertilizer bill remained.

Efforts to Adjourn Fail.

At 1 o'clock an effort was made to adjourn for the day but failed.

Then Reading Clerk McClatchey gave the Tippins bill its second reading.

Its friends scored. The first chapter in the prohibition fight of the session of 1911 was concluded.

Meant No Reflection.

The reference to the rules committee made by Mr. Lovejoy, of Troup, was the chief subject of conversation among legislators Thursday afternoon and night.

"Kindly state for me," Mr. Lovejoy said to a reporter, "that I meant no reflection on the personnel of the committee or on the speaker for naming them. Of course, when they were named nobody knew this bill was coming up, and I understand most of them have been prohibitionists in the past. However, it is evident that a majority of the committee is against the Tippins bill."

Several members of the rules committee in private conversation called attention to the part played in the matter by the temperance committee, of which Mr. Lovejoy is chairman. They say the bill was introduced on the first day of the session and was not reported until last Tuesday morning. They declare further that only two meetings for discussing it were held, and in the last of these it was clearly demonstrated that a majority of the members favored the bill. They charge that if Mr. Lovejoy had called earlier meetings of his own committee the bill could have been reported ten days or two weeks earlier.

THREE NATIONS IN PEACE PACT

The United States, France and Great Britain.

Washington, August 3.—President Taft will send to the senate tomorrow the general arbitration treaties between the United States and Great Britain and the United States and France, signed for this government and for Great Britain here today and signed in Paris for the government of France. The brief messages of transmittal to the senate were written and signed by the president today and tomorrow it will lie with the United States senate to ratify what has been termed the greatest step toward the abolition of warfare that the world thus far has taken.

The ceremony of signing the treaties took place in the president's library in the white house.

Small formality attended the ceremony. Secretary of State Knox, British Ambassador Bryce, Counsellor Chandler Anderson of the state department, Osmund Ovey, second secretary of the British embassy, the Vicomte Saint Phalle, of the French embassy, two members of the cabinet, a score of newspaper men and three photographers were present.

Photographers Click Cameras.

The treaty with Great Britain was signed at 3:10 this afternoon. Secretary Knox and Ambassador Bryce signed duplicates at the same moment, while the photographers clicked their cameras in accompaniment to the scratching pens. The French treaty was signed by Mr. Knox one minute later.

The treaties out of the way, President Taft took his place at the desk. Before him were laid the two messages to the senate, he affixed his name and then, so far as the executive end of the government is concerned, the matter was concluded.

A few minutes after 3 o'clock Secretary Knox took his seat on one side of the desk and Ambassador Bryce found his place just opposite. President Taft, Mr. Ovey, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Secretary to the President C. D. Hilles, Major A. W. Butt, the president's aid, and Counsellor Anderson, stood in a group at one side. Mr. Knox looked at the photographers, took up a pen and waited.

"All Right," Said Camera Battery.

"All right," said the camera battery. The secretary and ambassador, pens filled with ink, set to work on the instant. Simultaneously there was a great clicking of camera shutters.

Mr. Bryce left the desk after signing and Mr. Knox remained at one.

The French treaty was passed to him, and as Vicomte Phalle looked on he once again wrote his name in a bold hand.

"I think you ought to have that pen, Mr. President," said Mr. Knox as he finished.

"No, you had better keep it, Mr. Secretary," said the president.

Mr. Knox carried that pen away and the one used by Mr. Bryce was taken by a white house attache.

Ten minutes after the ceremony was over Mr. Bryce was walking down the capital streets through the rain and the president and Secretary Knox were planning to play golf together at Chevy Chase. The British ambassador left this evening for his summer home at Seal Harbor, Me.

GRILLING GIVEN TO BRIBE-TAKER

The Accuser of Lorimer Is Being Cross-Examined.

Washington, August 3.—All the arts of cross-examination were brought into play today by counsel for Senator Lorimer in an attempt to break down the testimony given on direct examination by Charles A. White, former member of the Illinois legislature, to the congressional investigating committee to the effect that he was bribed to vote for Lorimer for senator.

The Earnings of White.

The task of cross-examination was intrusted to Elbridge Hanecy, of Chicago. He first questioned the witness about his start in life at a salary of $5 a week. His highest salary before becoming a labor "lobbyist," White said, was $65 a month.

"Did you ever receive as much in any five months of your life as you did when you received $2,130 for attending the legislature?" asked Attorney Hanecy.

"No, sir."

White was next asked about attending church when a youth.

"You sat near the door, didn't you?"

"Well, I may have at times. I also sat on the front seat in the amen corner."

"When was the last time you attended church?"

White blushed and hesitated. Senator Kern asked if it was "before the war."

White finally said it was before his exposure in 1909.

White Stuck to Story.

Throughout the day White stuck to his testimony previously given, although his attention was called to the fact that others had testified differently. To repeated questions he declared that Sidney Yarborough was in his room the night Lee O'Neill Browne called White out to get him to vote for Lorimer, and not in Chicago. He denied having told George Gloss, the Chicago street car man, that he was going to vote for Lorimer, and also denied a conversation to similar effect which Representative Shaw swore he had held with White.

White admitted that the letters he wrote to Browne and Senator Lorimer contained "pure and simple lies," "Anglo-Saxon lies," "hypocrisy," "falsehoods and other harsh names," but White added almost each time that he wrote them to get admissions to substantiate the exposure he was preparing to make.

Why Officers Kept White.

White was asked why he was kept in the custody of officers from the night he sold his "confession" to The Chicago Tribune until after the first senate Lorimer hearing?

"Wayman (state's attorney in Cook county) said he didn't want me to get hurt, was all I know," said White.

White said he was denied counsel while in custody.

"I had Tom Webb, a lawyer in East St. Louis, come up to Chicago, paid him $40, but when he came I had to tell him Wayman would not treat with him," said White.

"Why didn't you just walk away from the detectives?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"I didn't want to be ungentlemanly. I knew they were ordered to do it by their superiors."

AD MEN FEAST AT CLAM BAKE

Dallas, Texas, Seems to Be in Lead for the Next Convention.

Boston, Mass., August 3.—Following a busy convention day the 3,000 delegates to the seventh annual meeting of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America went to the Point of Pines tonight and discussed an old-fashioned New England clam bake and shore dinner.

The program of the day was unique as it was the first occasion in the history of the organization when women have taken a prominent part. Harriet Chalmers Adams, of Washington, spoke at the morning meeting, and Helen Mar Shaw-Thomson, of Chicago, was the center of interest at the afternoon session.

Mrs. Shaw-Thomson explained the inter-relations of advertising with daily bread in a pleasing manner. She said:

"The greatest possible testimony that advertising is all economy to the consumer is the fact that a great majority of the women purchasers of the world favor advertised goods. Women are acknowledged to be good buyers. If they felt they did not receive full value for their money in advertised good they would not buy them."

Toronto, Winnipeg, Winston-Salem, New York and Portland, Ore., all launched booms for the next convention, but Dallas, Texas, still holds the lead with many delegates. The Texans announced today that Governor Colquitt, of Texas, would arrive here soon to ask the convention to come to Dallas.

FOR LOCAL SHOWERS WEATHER MAN LOOKS

According to the weather man, unsettled conditions prevail throughout the United States, and there has been little change in the weather for the past three or four days.

"The boss is a regular 'Howson Lott,'

IT'S GREAT FOR THE HEALTH.

said a guest after spending the night at his bungalow.

"Why, how so?" "Well, he's so enthusiastic, so much in love with his beautiful country place. We got out there about 6 p. m., walked all 'round the place and all over the house, saw the sleeping porch (his own design, too, by the way), where the children, including the baby, sleep, even in late fall, rains, etc.—nothing runs them in. When shown the guest room he insisted on pushing up all the windows and opening every door, bade me good night, assuring me that fresh air was the thing I needed. Good old, genuine ozone, with a capital O."

"Well, that was fine! Didn't you like it?" "Oh, sure. I just caught the worst cold I ever had. Can't breathe. Kerchoo! Ker-c-h-o-o!"

No Secular Schools.

Detroit, Mich., August 3.—At the closing business meeting today of the annual convention of the Knights of Columbus, Dr. James Walsh, dean of the School of Medicine at Fordham university, strongly protested against the education of Catholic youth in secular schools. Dr. Walsh is chairman of the committee on Catholic higher education.

A report submitted by him, urging more rigid and careful training for the Catholic youth was unanimously adopted. Cambridge Springs, Pa., was selected as the meeting place for the 1912 convention.

REMSEN BOARD READY TO QUIT

Dr. Remsen Says That the Members Are Tired of Being Attacked.

Washington, August 3.—The Remsen food referee board would welcome a finding that it is illegal, declared Dr. Ira W. Remsen, chairman of the board, before the house committee on agricultural department expenditures, today. This is the tribunal to which Dr. Wiley's pure food decisions are referred, and which reversed Dr. Wiley's finding that benzoate of soda was deleterious to health.

Dr. Remsen, who is president of Johns Hopkins university, said the scientists who compose his board are "tired of this endless attack, the motive for which we cannot ascertain."

"We all agreed, when the question of the legality of the board was raised," said Dr. Remsen, "that it would be a great relief to all of us if our body should be declared illegal."

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will be given an opportunity to explain to the house investigating committee his statement that the Remsen board was created to "conserve the interests of the manufacturers."

Dr. Remsen denied that any members of the board had ever tried to influence state courts or state authorities in favor of the use of benzoate of soda. Representative Moss, of Indiana, asked why Dr. Chittenden, of Yale, and Dr. Long, of the Northwestern University, members of the board, had gone to Indiana to testify in the suit of Indiana to prohibit the use of benzoate of soda? Dr. Remsen said certain manufacturers of foods had asked them to go and the members of the board first conferred with him. He conferred with Secretary Wilson, who told him there was no impropriety in testifying to the facts determined by their investigation.

"Who paid these expenses to Indiana" asked Representative Floyd.

"I believe they were paid by the department of agriculture."

Representative Higgins asked for what purpose the emsen board purchased chiffoniers.

"Those were to fit up the rooms occupied by the persons upon whom the experiments were being made," said Dr. Remsen.

"The so-called 'poison squad?'"

"That is a most objectionable name, a most unjust term. It prejudged the whole case by using that word poison. We called them the experimental squad."

Dr. Remsen said that no member of the board "would have accepted appointment except with the understanding that his work was to be entirely free from influence, and his findings to be based entirely on scientific experiments."

MONEY OF STATE PARCELED OUT

Appropriations Committee Provisions for South Georgia Normal.

The appropriations committee of the house passed on a few more measures disposing of revenue yesterday afternoon. Among those that will be recommended favorably are the following:

For the printing fund, $40,000 a year, which is an increase of $15,000.

For the keeper of public buildings an increase in salary from $1,500 to $1,800.

For the Soldiers' Home, $35,000, an increase of $10,000.

For the board of health, $27,500, an increase of about $5,000.

For the state board of entomology, $30,000, an increase of $10,000.

For the South Georgia Normal Agricultural and Industrial college at Valdosta, $25,000 for 1912 and 1913 each. This is a new appropriation.

For the geological department, to survey the water powers of the state and investigate swamp lands, a special appropriation of $10,000.

Aviator Badly Injured.

St. Louis, August 3.—Aviator Horace W. Kearney, of New York, while making a descent from a height of 500 feet, fell with his biplane here this evening and was dangerously injured. The machine turned turtle just before it struck and landed on top of the aviator. He was hurried to a hospital, where it was found that his right ankle had been broken, his right leg pierced by a rod and that he had sustained serious internal injuries.

TROUBLE BREWING FOR MONEY TRUST

It is Said Bankers Expect Adverse Decision by the Government.

Washington, August 3.—Attorney General Wickersham's report upon his inquiry into the relations of the National City bank, of New York, with the recently organized National City Company was transmitted to Secretary MacVeagh today. It probably will be a day or two before Secretary MacVeagh reviews the finding and a week or more before he decides what action, if any, the treasury department shall take.

It was learned today that the banking interests are prepared for an adverse decision and a complete understanding with the government will be reached without litigation. While the bankers, in organizing the company acted with the advice of their lawyers, they are said to be willing to comply with any demands the treasury department may make.

As Secretary MacVeagh's final decision will outline the government's attitude toward concentration of control or ownership of national banks by the "security company" method, a situation which affects banking interests the country over, there is every indication that the government's course will be laid out with the greatest deliberation.

That the "security company" idea has grown to national proportions was verified further today by inspection of lists of national bank stockholders which are on file with the comptroller of the currency. Government officials admit they were unaware of the situation until the attorney general's investigation of the National City Company brought it to light.

GEORGIA GAINS 1 CONGRESSMAN

By the Reapportionment Bill Passed by Congress.

The Measure Adds 42 Members to the House and No States Loses---Senate Amends Bill to Prevent Gerrymandering.

Washington, August 3.—Bearing an initiative and referendum feature to safeguard against gerrymandering in a number of states, the congressional reapportionment bill passed the senate today. It fixes the future house membership at 433—with two more when Arizona and New Mexico attain statehood—instead of the present 391. There was not even the formality of a roll call on the final vote.

Two amendments, both offered by Senator Burton, of Ohio, were attached to the house measure and on these a conference with the house will be held—all that stands in the way of President Taft's approval of the bill, which is to take effect March 4, 1913.

Added Expense of $400,000 a Year.

The increase in the membership of the house will mean an added expense to the country of approximately $400,000 a year. The salaries of the 42 new members will aggregate $315,000. Each will have at least one clerk at $1,500, which will add $63,000 to the total. Mileage and other incidental expenses will still further increase the sum, bringing it to the amount first named.

The reapportionment bill is so drawn that no state will lose in representation, but in some cases there will be a decided increase.

New York heads the list with an increase of six members, Pennsylvania four, California and Oklahoma three each, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Texas and Washington two each, and Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah and West Virginia one each.

The average congressional district will contain over 17,000 great population than at present, the average district comprising 211,877 under the new plan.

Initiative and Referendum.

The initiative and referendum provision was tacked on the bill just before its passage today. It was one of the Burton amendments. It provided that in case of an increase in the representation of any state, the redistricting, instead of being done by the state legislature, as provided by the house, should be "in the manner provided by the laws" of the state, thus leaving the redistricting subject to the initiative and referendum laws wherever they have been placed or a state's statute books.

These states have adopted the initiative and referendum in the form of constitutional amendments:

Oregon, Oklahoma, Nevada, Missouri, Montana, South Dakota, Colorado, Arkansas and Maine. Utah has adopted a similar amendment, but the provision is inoperative because of failure of the legislature to enact the necessary accompanying legislation. Besides these in the following states such an amendment has been submitted by the legislatures, but has not yet been voted upon: California, Washington, Wyoming, North Dakota, Nebraska, Florida and Idaho.

This amendment was agreed to by a strict party vote, 39 to 28, the republican senators voting for it and the democrats against it.

Nomination of Candidates.

The other amendment adopted prescribed that "candidates for representative or representatives-at-large shall be nominated in the same manner as candidates for governor unless otherwise provided by the laws of such state."

In some states the representation is increased by this bill, but through constitutional limitation or other cause their legislatures cannot divide the state into districts. The house bill provided for an election in such case, but not for a nomination and the second Burton amendment is designed to meet that emergency.

Three other amendments were voted down. These included provisions by Root, of New York, to retain the present membership of 391, which was defeated 46 to 23, by McCumber, of North Dakota, fixing the membership at 405, defeated 22 to 47 and by Reed, of Missouri, providing that where any state's representation is increased such representatives should be elected at large by the state-at-large until the state is redistricted by the legislature "or by the people," defeated 38 to 29.

The senate bill will be taken up by the house census committee tomorrow morning. Many house democrats expressed the belief that the amendments may be accepted by the house.

PROMINENT GEORGIANS HERE TO BOOST "BROWN" COUNTY

Citizens who motored to Atlanta in the interest of Brown county.

Hon. Douglas McArthur, of Montgomery county, and Messrs. W. W. Bourne, Gordon Ponder and Murdooh McRae, all prominent citizens of Telfair county, are in Atlanta in the interest of a movement to create "Brown county," of which it is proposed to make Lumber City the county seat. This committee believes that a splendid new county can be created out of a part of Montgomery and a part of Telfair counties, and they have according arranged a campaign to that end. They made presentation of their case to quite a number of members of the legislature yesterday. They do not hope for action at this session as the bill has not been introduced, but they say they propose to get busy between now and next summer.

These gentlemen made the trip from Lumber City to Atlanta in an automobile, coming by way of Hawkinsville, Fort Valley, Macon and Barnesville to Atlanta.

"We had a good trip," said Mr. McArthur. "This is the best way to see Georgia and I would advise anybody who wants to know Georgia as it really is to take The Constitution's round-the-state tour this fall. The tour goes through the heart of Georgia and it will be an eye-opener to those who have never taken a trip around the state in an automobile."

The whole committee concurred in the statement that crop conditions are unexcelled, and this is true of every county through which they passed from Lumber City to Atlanta. "It is the best stand of cotton ever known in Georgia," said Mr. McArthur, "and the farmers of Georgia are going to have so much money this fall that the bank vaults will have to be enlarged to hold it."

"The thing that struck me most," said Mr. Bourne, "was the highly significant increase in corn acreage. Everywhere we went we saw splendid stretches of corn with marked evidence of a vast increase in the acreage of other cereals, showing that the people of this state have read with profit The Constitution's teaching for the past twenty years that diversification meant prosperity; they are diversifying now as never before."

"And just let me add," said Mr. Ponder, "that I kept on the lookout for cattle and hogs, and it was amazing to see the number found alomst in every community through which we passed. My observation of the trip is that Georgia is now on a 'hog and hominy' basis of our own raising."

"I am a modest man," said Mr. McRae, who is a brother of Dr. Floyd McRae of Atlanta, "and I am not accustomed to a newspaper notoriety, but I do not mind saying that I corroborate every word spoken by my associates of our trip. I am just back from Mexico, where I have been civil engineering, and Georgia is the garden spot of the world. I never saw such a wonderful change as has taken place in a few years and I would not have missed this trip throughout the state for a thousand dollars."

POLICEMAN RALEY ANSWERS LAST CALL

Oldest Patrolman on Albany Force Dies Suddenly at His Home.

Albany, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Robert T. Raley, the oldest policeman in point of service on the Albany police force, was found dead in bed at his residence this afternoon. He went into his room after telling a servant not to allow him to be disturbed, and locked the door. Later, his wife was unable to secure a response to repeated knocks on the door, and when an entrance was forced, he was found to be dead.

Raley had been in poor health recently, but was on duty last night. An inquest may be held to determine the cause of his death.

During his career as an officer, Raley figured in some thrilling affairs. He was several times badly wounded, and was forced to kill at least two men in the discharge of his duties.

ROUNDING UP BLACKS WHO KILLED MERCHANT

Murder of J. R. Bullington at Macon Precipitates Chain of Sensational Events.

Macon, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The killing of J. R. Bullington, the Houston road grocer, by a negro named Frank Daniels, on Saturday night, precipitated a chain of sensational and sanguinary events.

Daniels, without any provocation, except that he was ordered out of the store for disorerly conduct, took Mr. Bullington's life and escaped. The sheriff and his deputies went to the house of a negro named Simon Barron, believing him to be in hiding there. Barron shot through the door and twice wounded Will Lanier, a negro deputy, who is now in the hospital. He then made his escape. Yesterday afternoon the sheriff arrested Joe Kemp, a negro, who is implicated with Daniels. He is charged with having joined in the attack on Mr. Bullington.

Then, last night, about 9 o'clock, the sheriff's deputies went to a negro house near Skipperton in search of Barron. A negro named Charles Jackson jumped out of bed and shot at Deputy Mullally, who fired back, killing the negro instantly.

This morning Simon Barron was caught as he was attempting to leave the county. As the record now stands, Mr. Bullington and Charles Jackson, the latter a negro, are dead; Joe Kemp and Simon Barron, negroes, are in jail, and a net is rapidly being drawn about Frank Daniels, the desperado who is at large.

HOSPITAL FOR DUBLIN.

Plans on Foot to Establish a Modern Institution.

Dublin, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The people of Dublin have a hospital enterprise under way which seems to be an assured fact.

At a public meeting, a central committee, consisting of Robert M. Martin, James M. Finn, L. Q. Stubbs, F. H. Rowe and H. M. Stanley and Mrs. F. H. Roberson, Mrs. E. J. Blackshear, Mrs. A. P. Hilton, Mrs. Izie Bashinski and Mrs. A. W. Baum, was named to work out the details.

The meeting was presided over by Captain L. Q. Stubbs, and was addressed by Dr. Jeff D. Herrman, of Eastman, councilor of the Georgia Medical Society for the eleventh district, who was present by invitation of the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Herrman showed the needs in this city for a public hospital, which, he said, would meet the demands for perhaps 200,000 people.

The central committee was organized by electing James M. Finn, chairman, and R. M. Martin, secretary. A public meeting will be held next week. It is proposed to raise $25,000 as a starter for the establishment of the hospital.

Wingfield Elected Solicitor.

Eatonton, Ga., August 3—(Special)—After one of the most exciting elections that has ever occurred in Putnam Colonel Terrell Wingfield was elected county solicitor. He was opposed by Colonel Meriwether Adams and Colonel Thomas Davidson, and the voting was very close.

BEER FOR HEALTHY SOLONS, MILK FOR THE AILING ONES

Macon, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The barbecue and entertainment to the Georgia legislature Saturday will decidedly be the biggest thing Macon has ever attempted. The preparations for the 'cue itself began today, with the killing of 1,500 pounds of beef, pork, kid and lamb.

In addition to this, there will be 1,500 plates of salad and eighty gallons of Brunswick stew. Figuring on three bottles of beer to a person, on an average, the committee has ordered 5,000 bottles of beer, which will be practically donated by the local breweries.

There will also be 200 gallons of buttermilk and 50 gallons of lemonade.

It is intended that the milk shall be for the dyspeptics and the lemonade for the ladies.

The barbecue will cost about $2,250. The cooking of it starts Friday morning at daybreak and will continue up to the very hour of eating. Twenty tables each with a capacity of 100, have been erected under the shade of the oak trees at the Log Cabin Club.

Pike County Institute.

Barnesville, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Quite a successful farmers' institute was held at the Sixth District Agricultural School today. There was a large attendance of farmers from the surrounding section, and all the addresses were attentively heard. Various practical questions were discussed and the farmers showed active interest in all of them. Among the speakers who addressed the institute during the morning and afternoon exercises were Professor Lawrence Duffey, principal of the school; Hon. T. G. Hudson, commissioner of agriculture; Professor J. E. Hite, Professor J. W. Hart and Dr. P. F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian. President Mitchell, of the Barnesville Chamber of Commerce, also made an address telling of the plans and purposes of the tri-county fair, which is to be held in Barnesville November 6-11, and asking co-operation of the farmers in making it a success.

CONFESSED KILLING MAN TO PROTECT KINSMAN

Attempts to Have Himself Held for Crime for Which Another Is Accused.

Albany, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The unusual case of one negro attempting to have himself held for the murder of which another negro stands accused has interested the authorities here today.

Fred Lockett was shot and killed in west Dougherty several days ago, and Pompey Murray surrendered to Sheriff Edwards, claiming to have fired the fatal shot.

At a commitment trial today it was clearly brought out by evidence that the killing was actually done by Walter Murray, a nephew of Pompey, who is held for the alleged crime. Pompey Murray was released under his own protest.

Hall Seeks Water Board Place

Macon, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Charles H. Hall, Jr., a well-known attorney at law, today announced his candidacy for the office of waterworks commissioner. There will be three commissioners and there are already three candidates, namely, Alderman W. H. Fetner, Mr. Hall and Alderman W. T. Anderson. It is also likely that Colonel W. A. Huff, former mayor, will also run.

TO BE MEASURED BY THEIR WORK.

"You are authorized to announce for me," said Hon. Walter McElreath, in a communication to The Constitution, "that charter legislation for Atlanta will be enacted by this session of the general assembly."

GOOD! That is what The Constitution has said all along and that is just what is going to happen. Practically all evidence of acute hysteria has subsided, and 99 out of every 100 people in Atlanta unite in giving our senator and representatives reasonable time in which to work out a charter measure that will STAND THE ACID TEST.

These men know that they are to be MEASURED BY THEIR WORK, and whatever that work is, they will be prepared to defend it as being BEST FOR THE CITY.

They will not be, and should not be, swerved from their course by excitable headlines and grotesque pictures of horrible possibilities. As Atlanta men, they are working—FOR ATLANTA, and The Constitution ventures the assertion that every citizen who honestly favors reform in our method of municipal administration, and who is not playing for POLITICAL BUNCOMBE, will approve the measure they present as being far better than anything that has been proposed by either the hell-bent "commission-or-nothing" advocates, or those who prefer relief by the vicarious method of uncertain charter revision.

IS THE POSTOFFICE PROBE A FARCE?

Is patronage, given or promised, responsible for inactivity in the congressional probe of the postoffice department?

It is impossible to conceive of any sound or substantial reason why the congressional committee is delaying this manifest public duty to the point where the directed investigation now borders on the farcical.

It cannot be lack of material, scarcity of evidence; Atlanta alone can furnish enough of that to keep the committee busy, perhaps through a week's session.

Admittedly, so far as the postal operations in Atlanta and its territory are concerned, departmental efficiency is at the lowest ebb it has known in a quarter of a century, and this through no fault of Postmaster McKee. He, like the whole service, is the victim of a "system."

With such conditions obtaining here, it is not unreasonable to presume that as bad or worse may be found at postoffices at other points serving large cities and important sections.

Conditions here are attributable to a variety of causes. The committee would do well to investigate the charge, not infrequently made, that jobs in the mail service in this division are farmed out by negro politicians on a percentage "brokerage."

Surely this assertion must have come to the attention of the civil service commission before now. Why doesn't it wake up and take hold of the situation, if a supine congressional committee proposes to ignore it, whether because of patronage or other reason or inducement?

Then there is the spy system, whose operations, it is conceded, have done more to bring about demoralization in the postal service than any other single factor. Watched, as they are, like criminals under life sentence, it is scarcely any wonder that postal clerks and employees are rendering inefficient service to the public.

With a system that permits the employment of incompetents, and then establishes over capable and incapable alike a system of espionage that may construe an innocent action into criminal guilt, it is impossible to get anything like results that will give public satisfaction.

It is this system, faultily constructed upon shifty foundation, with which Atlanta and the Atlanta public have to contend today.

Isn't that enough for any reasonably inclined committee to inquire into promptly and with some vigor? It might find even more; startling revelations are by no means in the realm of the impossible.

If the public is going to have any investigation of this evil at all, it is time the committee got about it.

There is plenty here for the civil service commission to get busy with, regardless of the congressional committee.

With the commission's rules and regulations flagrantly violated, as is charged, it is inexplicable that it has not before this put out a restraining hand.

The civil service commission cannot be afflicted with any self-imposed blindness due to patronage.

It can and should promptly perform this essential public duty, even if a colorless congressional committee does not.

ENACTING A CONSTITUTION MEASURE.

It is not often that The Constitution has been able to agree with the policies advocated by Senator Sheppard, but when he puts himself flat-footed on a Constitution measure, we are glad to give him the credit to which he is entitled as the author of the bill throwing light on the fee system prevailing in Georgia. Under the bill as passed by the senate every county officer in Georgia will be required to make quarterly itemized statements of all fees received, so that the public may know just what compensation every official receives.

We reproduce elsewhere on this page, as it appeared on June 8, 1910—a year ago—the leading editorial of The Constitution of that date—which furnishes the basis of the senate's action.

The house has plenty of time to make a law of this measure and any representative who votes against it will have some interesting explaining to make to his constituents when he gets back home.

This measure does not alter the fee system in the slightest degree—it simply provides that record be made of all fee compensation and that quarterly report be filed accordingly.

Certainly the people of the state have a right to know what the public officials are receiving for compensation.

GLIDDEN TOUR COMES SOUTH.

Announcement of the coming of the Glidden tour over the National Highway from New York to Jacksonville, in October, the first Glidden tour through the southeast, will be a source of no small interest and gratification to automobilists and good roads advocates throughout the section to be traversed.

The Glidden tour, an annual event, is perhaps the most nationally famous of all automobile good roads enterprises undertaken in the country; and its coming to the southeast will attract an attention to and an interest in this section which will be of inestimable value to it.

Not only are many manufacturers participants in the Glidden tours, but numerous individuals are among the entrants, and there is little question that many well-known automobilists from points upon the National Highway will be among the contestants for its honors and prizes.

A gratifying feature of the coming tour over the National Highway is the proposed return to the original plan of the donor of the trophy, which was a tour demanding regularity and reliability, without rigid technical restrictions. This has been the plan of the Georgia tours under the auspices of The Constitution and other newspapers in this state, and it is the method which unquestionably gives greatest satisfaction where the tour is a "free-for-all," open to individual skill and merit in driving, and not simply a contest among manufacturers.

A Glidden tour on this basis will appeal to automobilists generally and will undoubtedly be the largest event of the kind yet held under these auspices.

The tourists in this run will come directly through Atlanta on their way to Jacksonville, and will be given a welcome and reception here such as Atlanta well knows how to give.

"THROWING LIGHT ON FEE SYSTEM"

Leading Editorial in Constitution of June 10, 1910.

Within the past few days two significant incidents have developed in the controversy over the fee system of compensating county officials in Georgia.

The Fulton county executive committee has decided to put the issue of fee payment or salary payment up to the people in the August primary, and the grand jury of Bibb county has recommended the substitution of the latter for the former.

This action in two of the most important counties in the state, in conjunction with other manifestations of public concern, point the near approach of the time when settlement of some nature must be found for a long-agitated question.

One of the features least considered in the equation is that which curiously supports and confounds advocates of both systems—and that is the absolute lack of accurate information on part of a single man or set of men in Georgia as to exactly how little or how much remuneration officials working under the fee system receive for their services to the people.

A given official knows the aggregate of his own earnings, but the citizens from whom they were derived are wholly in darkness in this vital detail. It is equally true that no single official in any Georgia county, and no official or set of officials in the state-house or anywhere else, know the total paid to any officer or the aggregate paid out to officials working under the fee system in the state-at-large.

It is likely, if the truth were known, that officials in Georgia compensated by fees receive vastly less than they are popularly credited with receiving. Imagination feeds on trifles and slender conjectures in affairs of this nature, and it is natural to drift into the fallacy of predicating huge sums upon trivial and often unreliable outward evidence.

It is likewise probable that in a great number of instances fee-paid officials receive no more than they earn, or would be paid if placed upon a salary basis. In other instances some officials are probably extravagantly overpaid.

That is precisely the situation that confronts Georgia today with regard to this important matter of state and county policy. Literally, we do not know "where we are at."

Underlying all this uncertainty, and absolutely regardless as to whether officials are over or underpaid by the fee system, is the fact that the public is entitled and ought to know the source and value given for every penny paid by a taxpayer to a public servant, of whatever degree and wherever stationed.

That is the distinguishing basis of democratic government, and is not and never has been observed in the state's attitude toward the fee system.

The remedy is simple. Let the legislature, at its forthcoming session, provide that every penny paid a public official in Georgia be disbursed through the county treasurer or some other qualified official, that the account be itemized and that, above all, the bill rendered and paid for services tendered be made a matter of public record.

That is fair, sensible, logical! It neither decrees blindly the affirmation or abolition of a long-standing system, nor does it leave undisturbed a status that makes a public servant, however honest, virtually his own paymaster, with absolutely no provision of an accounting for his stewardship.

Some counties defend and want to retain the fee system. That is their privilege, but it is more emphatically their right and duty, in orderly conservation of public funds, to know to a cent what they are paying out and what they are getting for it in return.

Other counties speak of abolishing or revising the fee system. That, also, is their privilege, but they can proceed more effectively if their action is based on absolute information instead of the jungle of guesswork now prevailing regarding the fee system.

No doubt the counties will, in due time, be permitted to make the choice for themselves.

Whatever the outcome, the fundamental requisite, too long postponed, is light in place of the darkness that now obtains.

The enactment of such a measure as The Constitution has suggested, insuring publicity in public expenditures, would supply the state and the counties equally with complete data upon which to arrive at a sane and effectual decision.

Beyond all is the immediate need of full publicity touching the exchange of every cent between public officials and taxpayers. That should be made a matter of indelible public record.

In that respect, the present method is as unjust to the taxpayers as it is unjust to and misrepresentative of the officials.

M'ELREATH AUTHORIZES ANNOUNCEMENT OF DEFINITE CHARTER ACTION

Editor Constitution: I notice in this morning's issue of The Constitution an editorial concerning my action in having the commission government charter read a second time on yesterday and re-committed for further action.

Members of the legislature are not allowed to tell what transpires in executive sessions of committees, but I think I may be permitted to transgress the rule far enough to say that when the motion was made to postpone action for a week I stated that the bill would be read a second time during the week. This will leave nine legislative days to pass a measure, which being a local measure requires only four additional days for its passage both in the house and in the senate.

Consistent with my attitude with reference to this matter from the beginning, I declined to pledge myself to either faction in this fight, but you are authorized to say to anybody, that definite action will be taken on this bill in this session of the legislature.

The frenzy exhibited by the partisans on each side is not disturbing me in the least—it only makes me the more determined to sit steady in the boat, act for the best interest of Atlanta and take the consequences.

Very truly yours,
WALTER M'ELREATH.

LAURENS WILL VOTE $50,000 SCHOOL BONDS

Dublin, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—The commissioners of roads and revenues have reconsidered the resolution calling for a bond election on August 30 for road bonds to the amount of $300,000, and have passed a resolution calling for a bond election on September 6 for bonds to the amount of $300,000 for roads and bridges and $50,000 for the establishment of a mechanical, agricultural, normal and industrial school. This latter amount is to be conditioned upon the raising of a like sum by subscription.

The two items are to be voted for separately so that opposition to one will not interfere with the other.

While there is opposition to the road bonds, it is believed that it has a good chance of being ratified. If the bonds carry a commission will have charge of the expenditure of the money.

Apparently the school bonds will not be opposed. While it is believed the amount named for schools would have popularized the road bonds, it was decided not to put one on as a rider for the other, but to allow the voters to pass upon each one separately.

Those who favor bonds will conduct a vigorous campaign.

MANY LOSES REPORTED TO THE POLICE STATION

Ponce de Leon avenue has been the mecca of thieves during the week, one burglary and one sneak thief being reported from well-known homes.

George M. Traylor, of 29 Ponce de Leon avenue, left his suit case in a rear hall yesterday morning, preparatory to leaving on a business trip. The case suddenly disappeared, leaving no trace of the thief. It is supposed that someone sneaked in the rear door, after hanging around for some time.

The home of Andrew M. Lloyd, 281 Ponce de Leon avenue, was burglarized during the absence of the owner, by someone who broke a glass, lifted the latch and entered by a window. The thief modestly contented himself with a card case, a pair of old shoes, a suit of clothes and an eight-day clock, overlooking silverware and other valuables.

P. Thornton Marye, of 86 East North avenue, has reported the theft of two fine cases of whisky from his apartments in the Colonial.

Mrs. Robert P. White Thursday had stolen from her home, 370 Gordon street, a silver purse containing about eleven dollars.

Milk and honey hereafter will be all right, but when folks stumble over acres and acres of watermelons in this juicy old world, they're already in Paradise.

We're always at cross-purposes in this country. For instance, think of the philosophy in voting a town dry, and then praying for rain.

Letters From the People

Good Roads in DeKalb.

Editor Constitution: I am not concerned with any controversy between the authorities of the town of Kirkwood and Commissioner Freeman as to that part of the road through the corporate limits of the town of Kirkwood, but there is food for thought in the fact that a town may be permitted to tear up a splendid piece of macadam road built by the county authorities while there is no method known to the law by which the said county authorities may compel such a town to put back in good condition a road thus destroyed for the purpose of installing municipal improvements.

But the people of DeKalb county are very much concerned as to any statement that might make it appear that our county is not alive to the all-important subject of good roads.

The great work being done by The Constitution in the good roads movement is thoroughly appreciated by all who are keeping in touch with this movement.

As for DeKalb county, there has just been completed a stretch of one mile of a forty-foot boulevard, extending north from the court house in Decatur along Clairemont avenue to within a mile and a quarter of one of the main boulevards running through Druid Hills. This road between Atlanta and Decatur is now the one in general use by the automobilists of Atlanta and DeKalb county, and literally hundreds of automobiles are going over this road every day in the week. There are few better roads out of the city of Atlanta than this.

Commissioner Freeman has kept his word as given in the statement made by him to The Constitution by installing the rock crusher near the Georgia railroad depot in Decatur, and putting to work on the main road from Atlanta to Decatur a part of the county chain gang. I do not doubt but that in a few months he will do what he has also stated he would, make this one of the best highways in all the country.

Let me call your attention to the following:

Miles of macadam road in the county	18½
Miles of roads graded in the last 4 years	20
Miles of roads, graded, rocked, and soiled	28
Average number of convicts in the chain gang during the past four years	40
Value of road working equipment as per the inventory by the grand jury committee, January 1, 1911	$60,000.00

From these facts you must see that DeKalb county is thoroughly alive to the value of good roads.

Great development of every kind is going on in this county. In the town of Decatur, for instance, during the past four or five years there have been laid 9 miles of water mains, 10 miles of sewers, 10 miles of tile sidewalks, and 5 miles of macadam streets, and work in all of these departments is going on now at a most remarkable rate. More than 30 houses, including a new store and a new bank building, are now in the course of erection in the town of Decatur.

I am writing this letter at the request of the Decatur Board of Trade, which is interested in everything that affects DeKalb county and the progress of the state of Georgia. We thoroughly appreciate your interest in these matters, and we know that you will take pleasure in publishing this letter in such a way as will let all who read it know that DeKalb county "is not lagging behind in its appreciation of the value of good roads," or anything else that makes for the highest and best development of our state and section.

President Decatur Board of Trade.

Congratulates Constitution.

Editor Constitution: I wish to express my appreciation of the splendid work The Constitution is doing for the upbuilding of the state of Georgia. I have carefully read what you have said about this purpose. Though I am a Georgian to the marrow bone, the statements made were really surprising to me.

Without doubt Georgia is the Empire State of the South, and if The Constitution can put the facts in their possession before the people of the United States there is no question but that a tide of American emigrants would turn in this direction sufficient in size to rapidly fill up the enormous area of our state that still remains thinly populated.

The Constitution is to be congratulated upon the good work that it is doing for the general public.

IRA E. FARMER,
President Board of Trade.

Certain of Good Results.

Editor Constitution: There is no doubt that your series of publications in regard to the resources of our state and the fertility of the lands, climate, etc., will be of great benefit to the people at large, especially as there is no misrepresentation in regard to the fertility of the lands in our state, which should, and will, bring desirable settlers among us. We have thousands of acres of the finest lands for both agricultural and grazing purposes untouched as yet. Your advertisements will certainly attract the attention of parties in both north and west who are seeking permanent and desirable homes.

CITY NEWS

Petition in Bankruptcy.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States clerk's office yesterday by Franklin A. Webster, of Atlanta. The petitioner, who says he is a clerk, gives $2,416.53 as the amount of his liabilities, but declares he has no assets.

Watson Speaks August 5.—Thomas E. Watson will address a meeting at Bishop, Ga., on Saturday, August 5. In the first announcement of the meeting the date was published as Sunday, August 6, which was a mistake, and attention is called to the correct time, Saturday, August 5.

Norton Will Lecture.—Rev. DeWalt Norton, D.D., will deliver a lecture on "The Man of Galilee," Sunday night, at 8 o'clock, at the First Baptist church. He will illustrate the address with stereopticon views of scenes in Palestine. As Dr. Norton has traveled much in the Holy Land, his lecture will be very instructive and interesting.

Family Feud Aired.—A family feud, "worthy," said Judge Broyles, "of Breathitt county, Kentucky," was aired in police court yesterday afternoon. Two families of negroes, their cows, chickens and fresh corn, received the full attention of the court. The Reeds' cow had been worrying the Bryants and two younger off-shoots of the families were said to have gotten into a scrap. After half an hour of debate one of the boys was fined $3 and costs.

Mrs. Bush Is Injured.—Mrs. Guy L. Bush was painfully cut by flying glass from a shattered windshield, her husband, Dr. L. Bush, and his mother were painfully shaken up yesterday morning when their automobile was struck by a trolley at the corner of Edgewood avenue and Courtland street. The collision occurred just after a buggy had wedged one of its wheels behind one of the automobile's wheels. Mrs. Bush was taken to the hospital, but was later removed to her home.

On the "Sex War."—Continuing his Sunday night sermons on social lines, Rev. Frank Siler will preach next Sunday night, August 6, at Wesley Memorial church on "Sex War." He will have some things to say concerning the refusal of the present legislature to allow women to practice law in Georgia. In fact, the whole question of sex war in relation to business, religion, education, the professions and marriage, will figure in his sermon.

Not Insane: Asks Damages.—Charging that Peter Vergiolis, through his attorney, Burton Cloud, falsely and maliciously prosecuted her for insanity, Annie Trammell has entered suit for $5,000 damages against Vergiolis and Burton Cloud. The plaintiff says that Attorney Cloud, representing Vergiolis, began the process of law which was to have her adjudged a lunatic, and that she was arrested and imprisoned in the Tower from February 27 until March 18. The hearing, she says, came up on March 17, and the jury declared her to be of sound mind.

Henry Huff Bound Over.—Another "Jack the Ripper" was committed by a local justice to the superior court for murder without bond yesterday. He is Henry Huff, who has been under arrest for some time, suspected of being the murderer of Sadie Holley, near Atlanta avenue, on the night of July 20. The case was made by Detectives Coker and McGill, and is very clear. The most important witness was Hattie May Tye, a negro woman, who worked at the same laundry where Huff and the Holly woman were employed. She swore that she saw the two together, within 100 yards of the scene of the murder, some time after midnight Monday night.

Labor Day Workers Busy.—The Labor day committee of the Atlanta Federation of Trades will meet tomorrow night in Federation hall on Forsyth street and the indications are that the reports submitted by the various subcommittees will show the Labor day program practically completed. The finance committee, James L. Mayson chairman, will announce that the amount of money necessary to defray the expense has been acquired. Probably one of the most interesting reports will be that of the float committee, Carl Karston chairman. With Secretary Dunn, of that committee Chairman Karston has been working industriously for the past week.

Shortage Is Charged.—Following a warrant sworn out in Judge Ridley's court by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, E. A. Watkins, aged 25 years, of 32 Houston street, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with misappropriating funds. The trial was set for August 17. The prosecution is being represented by Walter Sims, who alleges that Watson, who was a collector for the insurance company, became short about $115. Mr. Sims, in behalf of the company, claims that Watson does not deny appropriating the funds, but states that he kept the money because of that much salary overdue him by his employees. The defendant came to Atlanta several months ago from Griffin, Ga. He is married and well known throughout the city.

Perpetual Exchange Privilege on Diamonds

Plain figure prices make exchanging safe. Exchanging a diamond where prices are marked in hieroglyphics is a farce, for you have no way of telling if the larger stone is priced to you as cheaply as it would be priced to a cash buyer.

Here, you run no risk. Everything we sell is marked in plain figures for just as little as it can be bought for by anyone, and you have the assurance of knowing that you have bought as cheaply as any one could have bought, even had they paid all cash.

It is our policy to treat all customers justly and fairly and there is a satisfaction in knowing that no one can buy for less than yourself.

Our partial payment plans are an improvement on anything of the kind that has been offered, and we want you to know all about them.

MEMBERS OF NESBIT FAMILY, 200 STRONG, MEET IN ANNUAL REUNION AT GRANT PARK

Nesbit family enjoying day renewing old acquaintances. L. D. King, president of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers, and a member of the family, and his wife are shown in the upper corners.

Members of the Nesbit family to the number of nearly 200 held their second annual reunion yesterday at Grant Park. A basket dinner was served in the pavilion at 1 o'clock and afterwards various members who are well versed in the history of the family read various extracts bearing on the deeds of the departed, who played an important part in the history of this country, Ireland and Scotland.

The Nesbit family is prominent in this state and South Carolina, where the original members of the American branch emigrated.

John Nesbit, of Scotland, was one of the most illustrious of the forebears. In the fifteenth century he suffered martyrdom at the stake rather than surrender his religious convictions.

In 1785 Robert Nesbit emigrated to South Carolina from Ireland. In 1793 he moved to Newton county, Ga., and settled near Hapeville church. He was a gallant soldier during the war of 1812 and at different times served with the land and naval forces.

The family has been noted for its strict religious faith and many of its members have been ministers of the Presbyterial church. Among these is Rev. W. A. Nesbit, of Savannah, Ga., pastor of the Westminster church of that city for the past seventeen years.

Dr. J. R. Nesbit, of Hapeville, read the family history at the reunion yesterday.

L. D. King, of Covington, president of the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' Association, who married a half sister of Dr. J. R. Nesbit and who is himself distantly related to the original stock, took a prominent part in the family reunion.

GAIN OF $546,629 IN SIX COUNTIES

Four Counties Showed Big Increase and two a Decrease.

Tax returns from six counties received yesterday at the office of the comptroller general show a net gain of $546,629 over last year.

Of the six counties heard from, four show increases, while two show decreases, as follows: Dodge county gained $267,768, Jeff Davis gained $197,284, Johnson gained $56,713, Turner gained $170,762; total $692,527; Gwinnett lost $140,946, Morgan lost $4,952; total $145,898. Net gain $546,629.

As stated in The Constitution Wednesday morning there are nearly half of the counties to be heard from, including all of the larger counties, and it is expected that the total gain in tax returns this year, exclusive of railroads and other corporations, will approximate $25,000,000.

Laurens Shows Increase.

Dublin, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Laurens county will this year show a very health increase of $225,000. After the digest had been sent to Atlanta a very hurried examination down to and including G in Dublin district showed more than $300,000 unreturned property. A letter was written to Comptroller General Wright not to give out information regarding the digest until it could be corrected, but it probably was received by him too late. The increase was very large last year and will not be so large this year, but will be a very good increase.

CUBAN CONSUL DENIES STORY OF REVOLUTION

C. H. Whittington, Cuban consul for Atlanta and the southern section, has just received a telegram from the Cuban minister in Washington branding the recent news story of a revolutionary plot in Cuba as erroneous. The story originated in the escape of two prisoners and their capture by rurales. Mr. Whittington stated to The Constitution that absolute quiet reigns over the island and that there is not the slightest effort to open a rebellion.

Vardaman's Majority 20,000.

Jackson, Miss., August 3.—Former Governor James K. Vardaman has won the democratic nomination for United States senator by about 20,000 majority over Leroy Percy and C. H. Alexander. Partial returns received here from every county in the state today indicate that about 119,500 votes were cast. Of this number the former governor polled over 60 per cent. Theodore Bilbo has been nominated for lieutenant governor over two opponents. He polled practically the same vote as Vardaman. The returns indicate the nomination of Ross Collins for attorney-general over S. S. Hudson by less than 5,000 majority.

Confederate Gunmaker Dead.

Columbia, S. C., August 3.—George A. Shields, a Scotchman, who came to Columbia in 1852, from the Waterliet arsenal, Troy, N. Y., to transform flintrock guns to percussion muskets for the state government, and who manufactured Springfield rifles and equipment for the confederate government, died here today, aged 91. He was proprietor of the Palmetto Iron Works.

Berry Pickers Drowned.

Crystal Falls, Mich., August 3.—A launch carrying a party of seven berry-pickers capsized near the mouth of the Fence river today, and five of the occupants drowned. James Conlin Slays Himself.

El Paso, Texas, August 3.—James H. Conlin, 53 years old, at one time president and general manager of the Chicago, Rock Island and Mexico railroad, a short line since acquired by the Rock Island, was found dead in a room here this morning, with a bullet in his heart, evidently self-inflicted.

CRUELTY CHARGED AGAINST HUSBAND

Mrs. Mamie Love Asks Divorce From G. F. Love, With Alimony.

Charging that when she lay ill with fever for three weeks her husband would not even hand her a glass of water, Mrs. Mamie F. Love has entered suit for total divorce from G. F. Love, who, she says, is in the railway mail service at a salary of $100 a month.

She says that on the second day of their marriage he cursed her and called her names and that sometime thereafter he struck her on the head, knocking her down. Her eye struck a trunk in falling, she alleges, and while she was down he jumped upon her and beat her unmercifully.

Another time, she charges, when she told him to come in to supper before it got cold, he hit her in the face. He called her vile names, says the petition, and after she had recovered from the spell of fever, during which he gave her no attention, and while she was barely able to drag herself about the house, he threatened to kill her with a pistol, she alleges.

Two days thereafter she separated from him, she says, and she asks that the court restrain her husband from further menacing her and that she be granted a total divorce with alimony.

REFUSE LICENSES TO BEER SALOONS

Committee Also Refuses to Recommend Licenses for Several Pool Rooms.

The police committee of council, at a meeting held yesterday, turned down many applications for licenses for near beer saloons and poolrooms, among the latter being the application of the Montgomery Amusement Company for its expensively-equipped poolroom over the new Montgomery theater. Action on this license will be delayed, it was stated, until the approval of the chief of police, the chief of the fire department and the city electrician has been secured.

The proprietor of the amusement company, Mr. Montgomery, appeared before the committee in person. He stated that if he had known that there was to be any question about securing a license for the poolroom he would not have considered spending $15,000 in equipping the place. He assured the committee that none but gentlemen would be allowed entrance to the room, and that it would be so conducted that no possible fault could be found with it.

The application of J. W. Wray for a license for a near beer saloon at 36 Madison avenue was refused recommendation after the committee had heard from a large delegation of people from the affected neighborhood. These alleged that saloons existing in that section had brought together such a rough element that it was no longer possible for women to pass along the street there, without being insulted. This statement was contradicted by Mr. Wray, who also claimed that the delegation did not represent the feeling of the neighborhood.

After an executive session the committee decided to refuse recommending licenses to the following near beer saloons:

John Hangeras, 542 Marietta; Samuel Emery, 74 Magnolia; J. W. Wray, 36 Madison, and C. G. Loeffler, 526 Marietta; poolrooms, Montgomery Amusement Company, Few & Andoine, 9 East Alabama, and Charles Maloof, 178 Decatur.

Licenses were granted to the following saloons: J. A. Mayo, 296 Marietta; James Sweeney, 46 Wall; C. G. Turner, 58 West Hunter; W. H. Redwine, 87 Peters; G. C. Clark, 115 Decatur, and Nickolas Pope, 132 Edgewood; poolrooms, Kimball house and T. S. Boyen.

WITH CINDER COLONY

The conference committee of the Southeastern Passenger Association holds its next regular bi-monthly meeting at the Hotel Blackstone in Chicago next Tuesday. Practically all of the prominent passenger men in Atlanta will be in attendance.

G. C. Smith, superintendent of the Brunswick division of the A., B. & A., was in the city yesterday on business.

Henry Hunt, local D. P. A. of the Rock Island, who has been in Birmingham for the past few days, will return this evening.

J. Warren Brown, of Memphis, S. E. F. & P. A., C., R. I. & E. P., passed through the city yesterday en route to North Carolina, where he goes to look after his company's interests.

A. Hilton, G. P. A., and J. N. Cornatzer, A. G. P. A., of the 'Frisco, who have been in the city for the past few days, left yesterday for their homes in St. Louis and Memphis, respectively.

G. L. Wood, general southern agent of the Wabash, and F. J. Parmalee, T. P. A., C., H. & D., are among the local railroaders who are out of town at present. Both are expected to return the latter part of the week.

More than 1,000 excursionists left the city on three special trains over the Southern last night bound for Jacksonville, Tampa, and Brunswick. The pleasure-seekers were taking advantage of the regular seashore excursion put on each summer by the Southern. All three trains left promptly, the first at 8:30, the second fifteen minutes later, and the third at 9 o'clock. The party was easily one of the largest ever leaving the city on a trip of this kind.

Lewis Smith, of Nashville, commercial freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern and the C., H. & D., was among the out-of-town railroaders here on Wednesday.

C. D. Wayne, A. G. P. A., Seaboard, has found Boston so much to his liking that he will not return to Atlanta until the first of next week.

W. H. Leahy, G. P. A. of the A., B. & A., is planning to show a series of county exhibits from south Georgia in the windows of his local ticket office this fall. Each exhibit will be allowed to remain in the window for several days. All have been displayed, a prize will be awarded that is adjudged to be the best.

Reports from E. A. Hamlin, T. P. A., who with his family, is spending his vacation in Detroit, are to the effect that he is enjoying his stay in the Automobile City to the limit.

The party which has been touring the west under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Black, of Charlotte, N. C., passed through the city last night en route home. A special train over the Seaboard carried the party from Birmingham to its destination. The party's tour occupied over a month and is reported to have been a most enjoyable one.

200 BUSHELS OF CORN TO ACRE ON THIS MILTON COUNTY FARM

Alpharetta, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) The accompanying photograph shows what is claimed to be north Georgia's finest corn patch.

The photograph was taken this week and is an acre corn field being grown by LeRoy Parker, about one mile from this place. The acre contains mare than 25,000 stalks and from the outlook will produce over 200 bushels of corn.

SPENCE IS ARRESTED ON SHORTAGE CHARGE

Ludowici, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) Somewhat of a surprise occurred at Glennville over the arrest of O. M. Spence, a prominent merchant there and a former manager for the Glennville Supply Company. Some time ago a shortage being suspected, the concern employed an auditor to check the books and it was discovered, it is claimed, that Spence was short several thousand dollars.

Spence has agreed to make good what shortage that is found against him if the matter is dropped, which has been agreed to by the owners of the Glennville Supply Company. He is now under a very heavy bond for his appearance at court.

After Spence's services were dispensed with by the Glennville Supply Company, he went into business with the G. C. Dutton Company and remained with them until they failed a few months ago, after which he opened one of the prettiest stores in Glennville, the fixtures alone costing several thousand dollars.

Correspondents to Picnic.

Cedartown, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) Very soon the correspondents of the Cedartown Standard will hold their annual picnic at Fish, Ga., which is near this city on the Seaboard. Brittain, of Atlanta, has been invited to make an address. There will be singing and many other interesting events. The people of that part of the county are preparing to make this a great day.

KHORASSAN PARADE MORE THAN MILE LONG

Yekod Temple Organized--Sinbad Temple, Atlanta, Conducted Ceremony.

Macon, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The institution of the officers of the Yekod Temple of the Knights of Khorassan here tonight was a notable event in secret order circles. More than a hundred members of Sinbad temple, of Atlanta, together with the Atlanta drum corps, took part in an elaborate fantastic street parade, which was over a mile long.

The Yekod temple starts off with nearly 250 members, initiating over sixty tonight. Following the institution and the initiation a sumptuous banquet was served, being eaten by those of the initiators and tyros who had breath enough left.

The installation was conducted by the Atlanta degree team.

A Good Hotel For Manchester

This is a substitute advertisement.

The one first written for today told of the fine opening for a good hotel at Manchester.

One has been arranged for. So we will tell you about it instead.

It will be built and operated by Mr. J. B. Winslow, Sr., who was so successfully operating the hotel which burned down there a few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow had won the affections of all who traveled that way. Spic, span, cleanliness everywhere. Comfortable beds, fresh linen every time. Best of food, well prepared—and plenty of it. And a geniality and courtesy and interest which contributed no little to an always full house.

The new building will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. It will be on Second street, near the Broad street corner.

In among the trees, long, broad, double verandahs. Two stories, about 25 rooms, all outside. Steam heat; waterworks and electric lights as soon as the muncipal plant, already practically assured, is completed. Furnishings and equipment will be of the very best.

Only trouble is that the building may be outgrown before it is finished. But provision has been made for enlargement.

Have you sent in your name for a copy of the free book about Manchester?

Her guests were Miss Brown, Miss Dunson, Miss Frances Clarke, Miss Margaret Ashford, Miss Jessie Mitchell.

To Mrs. Eidson.

One of the most enjoyable of the summer parties was that given last week by Mrs. F. J. Spratling, at her home in West End, in celebration of the fifth birthday of her young granddaughter, Pauline Spratling, of Macon, who is now her visitor. The guests of the occasion were the young people on the block ranging in ages from 4 to 8 years.

On arrival each one was presented with a spade and bucket and shown to the inviting sand pile in the back yard, under the shade of the big trees, and was told to make mud pies to their little hearts' content. The pies were baked on the kitchen range, and each guest was informed that he was expected to eat his pie when it was done.

When the oven door was opened again the pies, much to everybody's astonishment, had turned to little biscuits in the baking. Then the guests were invited to a table set under the grape arbor, and interesting with its cover of Kate Greenaway crepe paper, and having for its centerpiece a big bowl of yellow cannas. Ices and cakes were served.

The young guests were all comfortable in gingham dresses and sunbonnets.

Mrs. Thomson was gowned in white mull and lace.

Harper-McClure.

A quiet wedding that took place Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harper, at 85 Walker street, was that of Miss Kate Harper to Mr. M. H. McClure. The house was very appropriately decorated with evergreen and roses. The bride was attended by her maid of honor, Miss Annie Belle Harper, and the groom by Mr. Dawse B. Donaldson. The bride received a large number of presents, which were greatly admired by all. Mr. McClure is very prominently connected with Jacobs' pharmacy. A number of automobile and dinner parties will be given, and Miss Armistead will entertain at a large bridge party at the Driving Club.

DAILY FASHION HINTS

SASH ENDS A FEATURE OF FALL SKIRTS.

Instead of one panel hanging in the center, many of the new skirts in autumn two-piece suits have a double panel, as indicated in the picture. This skirt, of gray mohair, is a well-planned six-gored model measuring about two and three-quarter yards at the foot. The fastening is arranged under one of the panels. These panels are lined with silk matching the lining of a hig-length coat, which accompanies the suit, and both panels are stitched to the skirt almost half way down. The small buttons arranged in close rows are a modish fall feature.

THEATERS

Emma Bunting.
(At the Lyric.

In the title role of "Tess of the Storm Country," Miss Emma Bunting, the leading lady at the Lyric, has achieved a triumph. Her portrayal of the part of the half-wild daughter of the squatter-fisherman, is the best thing she has done this season, and that is saying a great deal, because she has scored some splendid hits since the season opened at the Lyric. "Tess of the Storm Country" is the play in which Miss Bunting is to be starred, her tour extending from coast to coast, and including the principal cities of the country. It is a dramatization by Rupert Hughes, author of "Excuse Me," the great metropolitan success of Grace Miller White's delightful novel. In the hands of Miss Bunting and her admirable players the play has been given a sumptuous production.

VERY LITTLE FRUIT ON BIG COTTON STALKS

Plant Not So Heavily Fruited as General Reports Indicate.

Cordele, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Prominent farmers of this section are not so much encouraged over the prospects of a big cotton yield, as has been true throughout the spring, and today several were exhibiting in the city some very large and apparently healthy stalks of cotton pulled up from fields which, to look at casually, would convey the impression that it is very fine, and that the yield must be large; but upon close inspection it is found these large stalks contain very little fruit proportionately, and that the yield must be small.

They say there are large and numerous fields of this character in this vicinity, and presuming this to be the case throughout the state, or even a great portion of it, would indicate that yesterday's government report for August, which places the crop condition of the state at 95 per cent, as against 70 per cent last year, has been vastly overestimated. They believe that the yield will not be in proportion to the past rapid growth and appearances of the weed.

Wool Bill in Conference.

Washington, August 3.—The house ways and means committee today refused to accept the farmers' free tariff list as amended by the senate and instructed Chairman Underwood to move that the house non-concur and ask a conference with the senate. "I have not the slightest doubt we can come to an agreement on the bill in conference," said Mr. Underwood.

TRIES TO HOLD UP ISSUE OF NEWS AND BANNER

Peter Padgett Brings Action to Stop Publication of Miss Abbott's Card.

Waycross, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) Seeking to stop the publication of an article signed by Miss Sarah Abbott in The News and Banner at Baxley, Peter Padgett has tonight prepared a petition for presentation to Judge T. A. Parker which, if granted, will stop the publication of this week's issue of the Baxley paper.

Padgett alleges libel, and has two attorneys representing him. The petition was brought here in the absence of Judge Conyers, of the Brunswick circuit.

It is alleged that statements about the disposition of a piano were made by Padgett, and the article from Miss Abbott is claimed to be a denial such as should not be printed.

Pests Playing Havoc.

Mansfield, La., August 3.—The cotton caterpillar and the boll weevil is playing havoc with the cotton in this section, according to reports brought here by planters. A shortage of paris green is causing much uneasiness.

IN WOMAN'S WORLD

CONDUCTED BY ISMA DOOLY

Progress and Work in Home and Out of It---

Views on Present Problems and Passing Events

PASSING SHOW IN REVIEW

Now that the new British court is established, it will be interesting to note what influence the change of regime will have on the pleasure-loving world of America as well as on the world over which Great Britain rules.

Although American women draw from Paris for their fashions in attire, it is to London they look for social standards and worldly customs.

The continent means to them a kind of playground, but England and England's customs and modes of living and entertainment have furnished the standards for America's so-called smart set, and they take England seriously.

A great deal has been said about the change there will be in London society in the attention shown the American woman, the late king liking American people, and especially American women. Though he still adhered to the old custom of not admitting divorcees to court, one exception was made in the case of young Mrs. Astor, the daughter-in-law of William Waldorf Astor.

She was received at court, but no other woman who had figured in the divorce court.

On this particular point King George and Queen Mary are quite as positive as was the "grandmother queen" Victoria.

The new regime is to influence every phase of British society it is predicted for the king and queen have tastes very different from those of the late king and his royal consort.

The editor of an English publication predicts that "other influences at work in the new court will be the encouragement of all patriotic and imperial movements, in the special recognition of the navy and its needs, and in the encouragement of the fine arts and literature.

"For, unlike King Edward," he continues, "who always preferred brilliant and amusing conversation to books, King George is an inveterate reader, and he is also a keen judge of modern art.

"Queen Mary again is entirely in sympathy with the king in artistic matters, and is an acute judge and inveterate student of artistic objects of all the best periods.

"All these things, it may be said, are small straws, but they show the way the august winds are blowing, and the English, always an adaptable people, will not fail to follow an exalted example of good taste and cultivated intelligence.

"The new court will be a truly imperial one, concerning itself with all the king's dominions beyond the sea, rather than with the trivialities of London and Parisian salons and the inner politics of European chancelleries."

These few lines from one in a position to know would indicate that the standards to be established by the new regime would be the high ones of encouragement in the real sense of literature and art.

Even the most patriotic American cannot but hope that if this be true the imitative element of America will continue their habit of drawing from British customs.

If they become the patrons of higher things as they were of extravagant entertainments in which the chefs of well-to-do families were pitted against each other and rivalry was in the matter of the best prepared foods and elaborated menus, there may be a new life in America, in the nature of art, music, the drama and literature.

No one can question the love Americans have for the beautiful; their homes indicate that and their willingness to pay the architect and the landscape artist, but in the matter of selecting the accessories of the home, the pictures, the bric-a-brac, etc., there has been the tendency to leave that to the decorator, too.

Too often, therefore, the charge is justly made by those who know that the costly American home frequently does not express individuality. It gives the same impression to the casual observer that the interior of the well arranged art store would where one handsome thing after another is exhibited in routine fashion.

Individuality in a home is the atmosphere which money cannot produce nor the artist nor the architect, for that must be reflected by the presiding genius of the home.

The standards holding in the last quarter of a century were rapidly bringing to a deteriorated state the home and the social activities of London. America's contingent imitating London were basing social success on the kind of entertainments people could give. It was not the wit of "my lord" nor the repartee of "my lady," nor the merit of the individuals whom they entertained, but really it was the florist and the chef who were being pitted against each other to establish the social rating of those ambitious. Many people unconsciously were beginning to measure society by the people who entertained and their rate of knowledge or cultivation by the clothes they wore rather than what they did or said in those clothes.

******

With the change which must come now in the preferred tastes of the new king and queen for art and literature and something besides the "mere trivialities," the attention of the people is commended to something which will make them think. When people stop to think something worth while always happens. And it is being suggested that it is time for the people of the young republic of America to stop and think, especially those who have "leisure" to do so.

Stopping to think may give a new impetus to art in this country and the American artist may not be obliged to go to London or Paris to be introduced as an artist to his own countrymen. Men and women who have leisure and wealth and want to do something with it may, as it is prayed they will do, stop and plan to build up a good citizenship which may step in now when such an influence is so emphatically called for and help adjust certain political situations.

There never was a time when good citizenship was more needed is the cry of the thoughtful American, and when good men and women should get together and work out the complexities, political and social, as they confront us today we will have begun to do our part in twentieth century civilization.

MISGUIDED CHIVALRY.

The court of Georgia must be an awful place.

Women in Georgia who have to earn wage to buy bread are permitted to perform every form of manual labor. They work in factories, stand in stores, nurse diseased people, wait on men of all kinds and conditions; they cook for them and sew for them; they work in the cotton fields; they work in corn fields, and nothing has ever been done to prevent this, though all of these avocations take woman out of the home. Yet when she still having to earn wage decides that she would like to do it through working her brain and asks to be admitted to the bar and practice law the hand of chivalry raises to protect her from the court, and Georgia falls down on the first principle of chivalry; she can pass an examination in the law, she awakes chivalry to the point when the chivalrous ones are going to protect her against what will be shocking to her when she gets into the courts of Georgia?

Is there going to be made any provision for the woman who still must work, but who can only do it with her brain, but is denied the opportunity?

The state surely cannot deprive her of the only way she feels she can do her best and then not do something for her.

All this talk about a woman's place being in the home is beautiful, but what about the woman who has no home, or who has no one to take care of her in the home?

LADY LONDONDERRY IN CAP AND GOWN.

In an interesting account of the recent visit of King George and Queen Mary to Ireland, the following interesting incidents are related:

It was like the thoughtfulness of the queen to wear on her entry into Dublin on Saturday a dress of green Irish poplin, specially woven in Ireland, and specially dyed a bright, pale emerald shade. Nor was this the only tribute to the sister island. The bodice and skirt were trimmed with very beautiful Innish MacSaint lace, very fine old Irish point. The queen's hat was also trimmed with ostrich plumes of the same emerald shade. It was interesting to notice that the Marquis of Londonderry acted as aide-de-camp to the king during the Irish visit. It is probably the first time that a sovereign has had an ex-viceroy as A.D.C. A very fine military figure he presented. He is lieutenant colonel and colonel commanding the 3d Northumbrian brigade of the R.F.A. The marchioness of Londonderry had many engagements for the royal visit, for which with Lord Londonderry she was the guest of Viscount and Viscountess Iveagh at 80 Stephen's Green. On Monday morning, in cap and gown, Lady Londonderry attended Belfast University with the earl of Shaftesbury, chairman, and Dr. Hamilton, president, all capped and gowned. Lady Londonderry, who has been a member of the senate since its foundation, was the only lady on the deputation which presented an address to their majesties.

As wife of the lord lieutenant of co. Down, the marchioness of Londonderry also went to present the address from the women of Ireland. Co. Down made a splendid contribution to the gift of the Marys to the queen. Then Lady Londonderry was also on the deputation of ladies of Belfast and the neighborhood, who were to attend at the castle on Wednesday morning to present a portion of the gift of Irish lace, which the queen greciously promised to accept.

MRS. WYNN DISCUSSES ATLANTA EXHIBIT.

After the recent meeting of the Atlanta committee working for an exhibit to represent the interest of Atlanta women, in the woman's department of the Appalachian exposition, Mrs. J. O. Wynn stated that though the exhibit would not be an extensive one, it would be an interesting one.

"Unfortunately we were asked to organize in the summer when the average Georgia woman has laid down her work for the year," said Mrs. Wynn, "but it has been our pleasure to do what we can in so short a time.

"There is a small group of us who have undertaken to arrange for the exhibit and I hope the work being done now will grow into something on a broader scale next year.

"I hope to see a committee organized in every state of the Appalachian region and to see the exposition looked forward to as a medium through which our women can exploit their wares with mutual benefit. In this way we can so well gauge our progress. I feel sure that when the women in organized effort have the opportunity to take hold of the movement they will accord their sisters in Knoxville every co-operation, and that the handicrafts of the women of the section will be given an impetus which they have hitherto not known.

"I cannot say just how many articles we will include in our exhibit, as we have not heard positively from all our exhibitors."

Mrs. Wynn is chairman of the committee interested in the exhibit and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry is honorary chairman. Assisting are Mrs. J. P. McGovern, vice chairman; Mrs. Harry Haviland Osgood, Mrs. W. E. Stockbridge, Miss Sallie Eugenia Brown.

Anyone wishing to know details of the exhibit to be sent by the Atlanta ladies may communicate with any of the above mentioned.

HORSE SHOW NEWS.

Mr. D. N. McCullough has won new honors with his beautiful bay horse, "Aurora," who won two blue ribbons at the recent horse shows at Lancaster and Georgetown, Ky. She won in the combination class and is still appearing in the Kentucky circuit. In the Georgetown show "Edna May," Mrs. Lownde's many times champion five-gaited saddle horse, beat "Bourbon Prince," the horse putting up the wonderful show in Atlanta last year, when Edna May won the blue against him. It was rumored at the Georgetown show that the victory of "Edna May" there closes her brilliant career; that she will become the dowager queen in the stable of her pretty mistress, Mrs. Richard Lasker Lowndes. Whether, like Patti, "Edna May" will come again and continue to win laurels, remains to be seen, but the last message is she has retired on her laurels.

Whatever happens she has made an enviable record; has given lovers of horseflesh thrills of pleasure. Besides her beauty, and dash, and gaits, and speed, she had qualities akin to what we call the dramatic in human beings. Her performance always partook of the dramatic. She could produce climaxes in her performances as clear-cut as those produced by the well-trained dramatic soprano, who knows her audiences, and who knows how to pique their interest first, then arouse their enthusiasm, and then carry it off with her.

Mrs. Lowndes has two new horses which will probably be seen at the Knoxville show, to hold September 12, 13 and 14.

The exposition in Knoxville will have as a brilliant initiative event, the horse show, to which it is promised the finest horses in the country will be brought.

SIMPLE, GOOD RECIPES.

Potato and Tomato Salad—Cut four boiled potatoes into cubes; and two tomatoes into eighths. Thoroughly mix the potatoes with three tablespoons oil, one tablespoon vinegar, one teaspoon tarragon vinegar, salt and pepper to taste, and one tablespoon finely cut chives. Mound in the center of a platter, surround with the sections of tomatoes, and a border of lettuce leaves.

Ivory Cream—Scald one pint thin cream; add three-fourths cup of sugar and one tablespoon gelatine which has soaked in one-fourth cup cold water. Cool, add one teaspoon vanilla, and as it begins to stiffen fold in one cup cream beaten until stiff. Mold, and serve garnished with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Coffee Souffle—Heat one pint cold coffee with one tablespoon gelatine and one-half cup sugar. Pour onto the slightly beaten yolks of two eggs, and cook over water until thickened. Remove from fire, add one teaspoon vanilla, one-eighth teaspoon salt, the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, and allow the mixture to cool. As it begins to stiffen fold in one cup stiffly beaten cream. Mold and chill.

East Indian Soup—Having had on the previous day, a currie of veal with rice border, and finding it difficult to serve any which may remain, the housekeeper will find this a very good soup to use up the meat and rice. Cover that which remains with cold water, adding one peeled and sliced sour apple. Simmer slowly for an hour, rub through a sieve, season more, if necessary, with salt and pepper, reheat, and add at serving one cup hot milk or cream, and one tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Tiny cubes of the meat may be reserved, before rubbing through the sieve, and added with the cream.

REST, REST, FOR THE WEARY

AFTER LONG REST CLUB PLAYS PELS

Crackers Will Present Complete Line-Up During Series.

Tommie Atkins Will Probably Oppose Big Otto Hess in First Combat—Zimmerman, O'Dell and Wells Have Mended Hurts During Rest.

After enjoying four days' rest, during which time the ankles of Zimmerman and O'Dell have become strong once more and the finger of Phil Wells has entirely mended, the Crackers will enter the series against New Orleans today in better shape physicaliy than they have been in many a day.

In fact, they will enter this series with a complete line-up and every man on the squad enjoying full possession of his complete bodily health, something unusual for the Atlanta team this season. With affairs in this shape they should make it interesting for the Pelicans.

The Pelicans and the Crackers have engaged in thirteen battles to date. Of these the Pelicans won seven, the Crackers five and one resulted in a tie.

In these games the Pels tallied 61 runs to 42 for the Crackers, made 121 hits to 93 for the Crackers and 20 errors to 23 for the Crackers.

Veasey has beaten the Crackers both games he has twirled against them. Hess has won two and lost one, Klawitter, Maxwell and Breitenstein won one and lost one each, while Foxen lost one and Fraser tied one.

Paige has won the only game he has twirled against the Pels. Johns has won two and lost one, Miller and Foxen won one and lost one each, Frock lost two and Britton lost two and tied one.

The probable line-up of the game today is as follows:

ATLANTA.	NEW ORLEANS.
Burch, lf	Barr, lf.
Buemiller, ss	Johnston, 1b.
Zimmerman, cf	Manush, 3b.
McMurray, c	Callahan, cf.

Mobile, Ala., August 3.—Though very wild, issuing eight passes, Allen was strong with men on bases, and Mobile today took the opening game of the series from Chattanooga, 4 to 1. Chappelle was wild, and ragged fielding behind him aided in his defeat. President Kavanaugh witnessed the game.

Birmingham, Ala., August 3.—Nashville made nine runs in the first inning today and won a slugging match, 10 to 3. The hitting of Welchonce was the feature. He was at bat six times, and got as many hits, one being a double and another a triple. He got two hits in the first inning, as also did Bay. Prough was slaughtered in the first. Speer, who succeeded, did fairly well. Bair was hit hard, also. Johnston hit a home run in the eighth. Munson hit a home run in the first with the bases full. The score:

JUDGE KAVANAUGH POUTS OVER THRONG

Mobile, Ala., August 3.—(Special.)—Judge William Kavanaugh, president of the Southern League, before leaving for Montgomery tonight, stated he was indeed disappointed at the small attendance at the New Orleans and Mobile games. The attendance here has fallen to almost nothing. Only about three hundred people being present. The head of the league said with the class of ball being played by the Southern League the public should turn out in larger numbers. Judge Kavanaugh said that the Southern League was faster than the American Association.

BURCH SHOWS UP; NOW A CRACKER

New Orleans, La., August 3.—(Special.)—Al Burch reported to the Atlanta Crackers, and was one of the ten to reach New Orleans today. Manager Jordan, with O'Dell, Sykes, Miller, Zimmerman, McMurray, Beumiller, Howard, Atkins and Burch, loafed about their hotel while resting for the final series with the Pelicans, beginning Friday.

Britton ando other Crackers were so enamoured of fishing resorts in the vicility of Mobile that they begged to be allowed to remain, promising to report in New Orleans Friday morning.

Atkins is slated to pitch against Iver Wagner in the opening game of the series here.

Manager Jordan is delighted over the acquisition of Burch, whose experience at Brooklyn should make him a terror in the Southern.

Red Sox 3, Tigers 2.

Boston, August 3.—It was largely Harry Hooper who won Boston's third victory over Detroit today, 3 to 2. He was responsible for all the Boston runs and broke up the game in the twelfth inning by sending Yerkes home with a hit ordinarily good for a home run. He also sent Yerkes home ahead of him with a home run in the third and made a wonderful catch in the first off Crawford's bat. Both Collins and Dovovan were strong in pinches.

Ty Cobb earned his money, as usual, but didn't play in the limelight as he does so frequently.

Stranded Players Free.

Cincinnati, August 3.—That the players of a disbanded league shall be free agents and therefore agreements for the sale or draft of their contracts are void by baseball law, was the decision handed down by the National Baseball Commission today. The case at issue came up on appeal from the national board, which had decided that the Jackson club of the Cotton States League had no valid claim to the services of Players Peck, Weakley and Miller, purchased from the Jonesboro club of the Northest Arkansas League three days after the league disbanded. The Jackson club appealed to the national commission, but lost its contention in the supreme court of baseball also.

COME OFF THAT PERCH!

BY WAY OF GOOD MORNING

IT ILL AFFORDS A TAIL END CLUB TO REST

EVEN THE DODGERS HAVE STARTED WINNING

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Upton Sinclair and his fellow socialists are doing time in a prison for the heinous crime of playing baseball on Sunday. Socialism is bound to grow under such persecution. Sinclair and his fellow "liberators of the human race" hit at a ball and attempted to stop grounders, and chased flies for their own edification and amusement. No price of admission was charged. No money was at stake. Eighteen men were simply getting some fresh air and healthy exercise. And then the constabulary came. Sinclair and his associates were thrown into jail. They were fined for their "crime." They refused to pay. They are now in jail, common criminals. And at the same time automobiles are whizzing by every Sunday and the clubs of the people who have the price are patronized as they always have been. No wonder Karl Marx is remembered as a big leaguer.

Rest is one of the few blessings of a poor man. Cessation from labor has been of benefit to everybody from John D. Rockefeller to James J. Jeffries, but it is some punishment to a tail-end team. But rest is fatal to a ball club that occupies a position as lowly as that of the Crackers. For instance, yesterday the Crackers were within a game of the Gulls. An excellent chance was provided for the Jordanites to rise from their ignominious position to the comparative heights of seventh place. But the Crackers were compelled to rest. What happened? Why, the Gulls won a game and the Crackers will have to do some tall pastiming with the Pelicans to overcome the lead. Still, reports have it that the Crackers caught some fish, and any crowd that can entice the elusive finny ones from the Gulf of Mexico can win ball games. There is yet hope, Horatio.

"Bugs" Raymond, battered about like an ancient and waterlogged craft in a billowy sea, has not had his habitat fixed. Memphis has turned him down. Molesworth refused to give Bert Maxwell and take several thousands for the noted germ. In the meantime, Atlanta pines for the mighty microbe.

Mr. Mike Donlin made his debut as a Dove yesterday, and as a result, the Tenney tribe almost won a game. For the Beaneaters this is some feat. Miquel smashed a two-bagger that counted a run, and put the Bostonese in the lead. This so surprised the world that the heavens began to cry and interrupted the pastiming, and Mike's hit didn't count even in the batting averages.

And speaking of Boston, just pause a minute and view the work of their fellows of the Consistent Consumers of baseball losses—the dignified Washington Senators and the Brooklyn Dodgers. Each has developed into part and parcel of our best little winners. The Senators got away with gobs of games from Cleveland, while the Dodgers have been going a pace that threatens the peace of the Cincinnati Reds in their security of keeping sixth place. There is yet hope for the Crackers.

Again the Tigers and the Mackmen are so close together that the striped Bengal can hardly be distinguished from the ponderous elephant. The Tigers took the count yesterday after ten innings of battling with the Red Sox. Philadelphia suffered from rain. The Athletics play a double-header today. Inasmuch as their opponents are the Browns, there is every likelihood that the American League will have a new leader in the morning.

George Browne goes to Winston-Salem in the Carolina League. Just a few years ago, Browne led the batting order of a team that won a world's championship. Today he is in a class "D" league. He is better off than Amos Rusie, however, for that athlete is now heaving pine boards in a saw mill. Only Cy Young persists in staying in the big show. "Sic transit gloria."

WATSON TO GET BACK IN BATTLE

Application for unanimous consent of the league moguls to reinstate Outfielder Jules Watson has met with prompt reply from five of the clubs of the league, two of them not yet answering the telegrams of President Heisman.

When these two clubs give their consent to the reinstatement of Watson the big fellow will again be placed in full standing as a Carcker.

Watson's game leg is coming along nicely now and by the first part of next week he will be able to get into action again. Watson will join the team again in Montgomery and will play in the series there, if the consent for reinstatement has been obtained by that time, and it is believed that it will.

Benefit for Cadman.

Mobile, August 3.—A benefit game will be played here on September 12 for Catcher Walter Cadman, of the Mobile club, who is ill with typhoid fever, and who is out of the game for the remainder of the season.

BRITTON PLACED ON ELIGIBLE LIST

Albert Arlington Britton, pitcher-outfielder of the Crackers, was yesterday placed on the eligible list again by the Crackers.

Britton will not join the Crackers in New Orleans, but will be on hand bright and early for the opening game of the series in Birmingham Monday and will probably twirl one of the games of that series, though there is a possibility of his returning to the outfield in Howard's place until Watson again joins the club.

Britton is in good shape and has kept in excellent shape ever since he was placed on the ineligible list by going to the ball park every day and working out. He believes that he has found his old cunning as a pitcher again and will make some of the others sit up and take notice when he gets in the box once more.

Palzer Bests Kennedy.

New York, August 3.—Al Palzer, of New York, practically knocked out Tom Kennedy, also of New York, in a fast bout at the National Sporting Club tonight. In the ninth round Kennedy was forced to take the count of nine, but on arising was felled again and had to be carried to his corner when the round ended four seconds later. He was unable to face his opponent for the final round. Kennedy, who was for several years heavyweight amateur champion, was making his professional debut.

BOGEY PLAY RULE BY COMMITTEE

New York, August 3.—The executive committee of the United States Golf Association has finally legalized bogey play. Rules have been adopted for the completion, which is defined as a series of stroke competitions in which play is against a fixed score at each hole of the stipulated round or rounds, the winner being the competitor who is most successful in the aggregate of those competitions. The rules for stroke competitions shall apply with the following exceptions:

1. Any hole for which a competitor makes no return shall be regarded as a loss. The marker shall only be responsible for the marking of the correct number of strokes at each hole at which a competitor makes a score either equal to or less than a fixed score.

2. Any breach of rule which entails the penalty of disqualification shall only dispualify the competitor for the hole at which the breach occurred, but a competitor shall not be exempted from the general disqualification imposed by stroke rules 2, 4 and 5.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 3.

Chicago, August 3.—Three home runs in the fifth inning was the feat accomplished today by Brooklyn in defeating Chicago, 5 to 3. Zimmerman hit to right field the first ball pitched and it rolled under a pile of lumber. Erwin followed by knocking over the right field fence the first ball pitched Teney relieved Richie here and was somewhat wild. With a man on base, Wheat hit to right center for a home run. Knetzer blew up in the sixth.

PICKS FOR WALKER BENEFIT

The following picks of all-star teams for the benefit of Scotty Walker, were received yesterday:

First Team— Moran (Chattanooga), l. f.; Zimmerman (Atlanta), c. f.; Lejune (Chattanooga), r. f.; O'Dell (Atlanta), 3b.; Sentell (Chattanooga), ss.; Jordan (Atlanta), 2b.; Lister (Chattanooga), 1b.; McMurray (Atlanta), c.; Maxwell (New Orleans), Atkins (Atlanta), Allen (Memphis), Benton (Chattanooga), Paige (Atlanta), pitchers.

Second Team—Daley (Montgomery), l. f.; Northern (Chattanooga), c. f.; Manush (New Orleans), 3b.; Beumiller (Atlanta), ss.; Pratt (Montgomery), 2b.; Sykes (Atlanta), 1b.; Elliot (Birmingham), c.; Hess (New Orleans), Bair (Nashville), W. Miller (Atlanta), Moore (Chattanooga), Johns (Atlanta), pitchers.

A LOYAL FAN.

Sporting Editor, Atlanta Constitution—Dear Sir: The following is my pick for the all-star team: Angemier (New Orleans), Elliott (Birmingham), catchers; Atkins (Atlanta), Covaleskie (Chattanooga), Hess (New Orleans), Maxwell (Birmingham), Prough (Montgomery), pitchers; Schwartz (Nashville), 1b.; Kirke (New Orleans), 2b.; Smith (Nashville), 3b.; Crandall (Memphis), ss.; Barr (New Orleans), l. f.; Northern Chattanooga), r. f.; Callahan (New Orleans), c. f. Yours truly, J. E. R.

Sporting Editor, Atlanta Constitution—Dear Sir: I am an ardent admirer of Scotty Walker, and hope the people will turn out to the game and make it a success due him for the past services as a player on the Atlanta team. I am also picking a team which I consider the stars of the league: Schwartz (Volunteers), 1b.; Pratt (Billikens), 2b.; Smith (Volunteers), 3b.; Crandall (Turtles), ss.; Northern (Lookouts), r. f.; Callahan (Pelicans), c. f.; Barr (Pelicans), l. f.; Watson (Crackers), utility; Elliott (Barons), Angemier (Pelicans), catchers;; Maxwell (Barons), Hess (Pelicans), Atkins (Crackers), Allen (Gull), Miller (Crackers), pitchers. Yours truly, E. B. B.

Sporting Editor, The Constitution—The following is my selection of players to participate in the Scotty Walker benefit series, and I suggest a three-game series: Elliott (Birmingham), Angemier (New Orleans), catchers; Maxwell (Birmingham), Hess (New Orleans), Miller (Atlanta), Atkins (Atlanta), More (Chattanooga), pitchers; Schwartz (Nashville), 1b.; Pratt (Montgomery), 2b.; Crandall (Memphis), ss.; Smith (Nashville), 3b.; Northern (Chattanooga), r. f.; Zimmerman (Atlanta), c. f.; Daley (Montgomery), l. f.; Barr (New Orleans), sub. A LIVE FAN.

Sporting Editor Constitution—The fans who have been picking an all-star team for the Walker benefit game, have been using too many Atlanta players and have not considered the batting eye. A team must bat to win a game. Here is a team that can bat as well as field: Swacina (Mobile), 1b.; Pratt (Montgomery), 2b.; Knapp (New Orleans), ss.; Murch (Chattanooga), 3b.; Barr (New Orleans), l. f.; Northern (Chattanooga), c. f.; Dobbs (Montgomery), r. f.; Nagle (New Orleans), McMurray (Atlanta), catchers; Allen (Mobile), Bailey (Montgomery), Hess (New Orleans), bair (Nashville), Maxwell (Birmingham), pitchers.

A FAN.

Sporting Editor The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: Am submitting to you a team that I don't think could be beat by any other team in this league. I would suggest that the line-up be as follows with Schwartz as manager or captain: Northern (Chattanooga), c. f.; Sentell (Chattanooga), ss.; Pratt (Montgomery), 2b.; Barr (New Orleans), l. f.; Callahan (New Orleans), r. f.; Manush (New Orleans), 3b.; Schwartz (Nashville), 1b.; Elliott (Birmingham), Higgins (Chattanooga), catchers; Hess (New Orleans), Benton (Chattanooga), Maxwell (Birmingham), Klawitter (New Orleans), Moore (Chattanooga), pitchers.

As you will notice this team contains some of the heaviest hitters, best base stealers and pinch hitters in the league. Look at Northern lead off man, Sentell, best sacrifice hitter in the league, Pratt, one of the best clean-up hitters.

While Manush, Barr and Schwartz are, I believe, three of the best pinch hitters in the league. Not a bone-head in the bunch. Take that bunch of pitchers, all are fine hitters with the possible exception of Maxwell and Benton.

I take The Constitution and consider it the best sport paper in the south, that is for reliability. Yours very truly,

"A BASEBALL NUT."

Chattanooga, Tenn., August 2, 1911.

WHY ALL THIS FUSS?

New Orleans, August 3.—"Rube" Benton, the Chattanooga left-hander, in yesterday's game with New Orleans not only struck out thirteen Pelicans, coming within one of Pitcher Burleson's season strike-out record of fourteen men, but turned loose a wild pitch and completed a strike-out all in one whirl of the ball in the seventh inning. With two out, Hyder Barr at bat and two strikes, Benton turned loose one that hit in front of the plate, then bounced so high that Catcher Higgins could not reach it. Barr struck at it just the same and made first base on it.

There was some contention as to how it should be scored, and in this contention Manager Frank, of the Pelicans, took a hand by saying that Benton should have a strike-out and the catcher an error, notwithstanding the fact that the catcher had no chance to lay hands on the ball. Others contended that it was impossible to score a strike-out and a wild pitch on the same pitch.

The rules make it necessary to charge Benton with a wild pitch and at the same time give him the benefit of a strike-out.

The question was settled today.

This same play happened at Ponce de Leon this season. "Doggie" Miller was the pitcher. The official scorer promptly scored a strike-out and wild pitch. No other sensible solution could possibly have been arrived at. Why the New Orleans scribes should get so exorcised over such a simple piece of scoring is beyond our knowledge. It's so ridiculously simple.

REPS WILL PLAY GAME OF BALL

Washington, August 3.—A baseball game Monday between democratic and republican representatives promises fun for the spectators. Representative Kinkead, of New Jersey, captain of the democratic team, announced on the floor of the house that he finally had induced eight republicans to play and that Governor Tener, of Pennsylvania, a former professional player, would be here to officiate as umpire.

Mobile, August 3.—(Special.)—President Kavanaugh says that the fining of ex-Manager Holmes, of the Mobile club, is warranted and it is not up to him to make the next move as the matter is in the hands of the national commission.

ALL NATIONS ON CINCINNATI REDS

No wonder the Cincinnati Reds are unable to strike a consistent winning streak. How in the world could a bunch of ball players with as many nationalities as the Reds have play winning ball?

Look at their line-up, there are four different nationalities in the infield and three in the outfield.

On first base is Hoblitzell, a German. At second is Egan, an Irishman. On short is Balenti, an Indian. On third is Almeida, a Cuban.

In left field is Bescher, a German. In center is Marsans, a Cuban, and in right field is Mitchell, an Irishman.

Behind the bat Irishmen prevail, with McLean and Clarke. The nationalities of the pitching staff are not known at this time.

Chicago, August 3.—Word was received here tonight from President B. B. Johnson, of the American League, that a fine of $50 had been imposed on Captain Harry Lord, of the Chicago team, for his misconduct in the second game of last Saturday's double-header in New York. Lord attacked Umpire Mullen, giving him a push with both hands when a decision at second base went against him.

Jacksonville, Fla., August 3.—No attempt to race horses here next winter will be made, it was decided today by the directors of the Florida Live Stock Fair Association, under whose auspices the meets at Moncrief park have been held the past three years. Their action sets at rest reports that they would test the anti-betting law passed by the last legislature. What disposition will be made of the track has not been disclosed.

BROWNE GOES TO WINSTON-SALEM

George Browne, the big league speed demon, whose bad arm has been the cause of more trouble to him than any other thing during his history as a ball player, has taken a step further down the baseball ladder, but in justice to him, it must be said that he has done so of his own volition in an effort to bring his arm around for next season's work.

Browne has gone to Winston-Salem, in the Carolina Association, where he will finish the season as an outfielder. He returned to Atlanta yesterday morning from Mobile and in the afternoon left for his new field.

Browne is anxious to get into shape once more and Charley Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn club, to whom he really belongs, is doubly anxious for the speed marvel to round into shape. As the arm is mending, a couple of weeks work in this warm climate should bring it around nicely.

WITH THE AMATEURS.

CRAWFORDVILLE 3, UNION POINT 0.

Crawfordville, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The Crawfordville ball team met and defeated Union Point yesterday, 3 to 0. Union Point had men on third several times but could not hit when hits meant runs.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Union Point.....000 000 000—0	0	2	4
Crawfordville.....000 012 00x—3	5	3

Batteries—Union Point, Flucker and Newsom; Crawfordville, Holden and Simmons.

TAYLORSVILLE 7, CEDARTOWN 6.

Taylorsville, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The Taylorsville team visited Cedartown Tuesday afternoon and crossed bats with the Central of Georgia Railway shops team, winning the game by the close score of 7 to 6.

The visiting team was given choice of innings, taking the field. At the beginning of the ninth inning the score stood 6 and 4 in favor of the visitors, when Cedartown scored twice. The visitors came to bat with grim determination; the first three up getting singles and filling the bases. On an attempted hit and run play one was retired on a close decision at the plate. Shaw, the next up, then hit safely scoring the runner from third with the winning run.

The game was featured by brilliant fielding of Cedartown's shortstop, the hitting of Shaw for the visitors with two singles, a double and triple out of five efforts, and the pitching of Freeman for the visitors with fourteen strike-outs. Freeman struck out six in the first two innings, after which the game was played almost entirely in a drizzling rain, making it hard on both pitchers. The entire Taylorsville team hit the ball hard and at the very time when hits meant runs.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Cedartown.....6	6	3
Taylorsville.....7	14	2

Batteries—Cedartown, Hogg and Hutchinson, of Tallapoosa; Taylorsville, Freeman. uford and Davis.

The Taylorsville team would like to arrange for games with near-by teams, either at home or abroad. Cartersville or Rockmart preferred.

SOUTHERN BELL BEATEN.

Gainesville, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—Gainesville took the first game of the series from the Southern Bell team by a one-sided score, 21 to 4. Rain interfered throughout the game, which was called at the end of the sixth inning. The feature was the batting of Crow for Gainesville. He got three doubles and two singles out of five times up. Smith, for Gainesville, pitched a good game. Southern Bell used two pitchers. These two teams play here tomorrow and Saturday.

ROYSTON BEATS ELBERTON.

Royston, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—The strong Elberton team suffered defeat at the hands of the Royston team by the one-sided score of 8 to 1. Had it not been for a close decision by the umpire at third base it would have been another shut-out game handed to Elberton, as Jones, Royston's pitcher, had only allowed three hits up til the sixth inning, when he was hit on the head by a pitched ball and was carried from the field, being relieved by Bailey, who allowed only two hits the remainder of the game. There was some fast fielding by both teams, despite the muddy field. Hulme, Elberton's pitcher, was easy picking for the heavy hitting Royston players. Herndon, for Royston, played his usual good game on third, also starred at the bat, getting three hits out of four times up.

Batteries—Elberton, Hulme and Cabiness; Royston, Jones, Bailey and Jones.

QUAKER SCRIBE BOOSTS TY COBB

Gordon McKay, baseball expert of The Philadelphia Times, has the following boost for Ty Cobb:

"Tyrus Raymond Cobb, that gorgeous Georgians, according to what he tells me, is a pretty sick youth. Ty thinks that a certain disease named typhoid is camping on his trail, and he is afraid that it means a long and tedious illness for him. Tyrus is also a battered hulk of humanity. He has a pair of hands that are covered with bruises, and in addition he lacks his old-time steam and pep, as he readily admits. When he was informed that his batting average looked pretty neat for an invalid, he said he could hit the old pill all right, but when he got on the sacks he lacked the old steam and stamina to boost himself around in the Cobbesque style. Ty says that he is sticking out in the game because he wants to be in there, but he feels pretty punk every day that he drags himself into the pastime. After watching his work in the present series, one wonders what would happen if he hadn't a few ailments tucked away in his southern system."

CADETS ARE WANTED FOR MILITARY ACADEMY

The War Department Begins Campaign to Fill All Classes.

Washington, August 3.—The war department has begun a determined campaign to procure the highest number of cadets allowable under the law for the class entering the United States Military Academy next June. While the entrance examinations will not be held until April, senators and representatives already are being urged to scour their districts for the young men best qualified for the military service.

There are now 100 vacancies in the class entering next year, for which no candidates have been presented. These vacancies extend to nearly every state and territory.

TOGO WELCOMED TO UNITED STATES

Japan's Great Sea-Fighter Guest of Nation.

The Admiral Reaches New York on the Lusitania and Is Greeted by Representatives of the Government. Togo's Great Career.

New York, August 3.—The United States, at midnight tonight, formally welcomed to its shores Admiral Count Heihashiro Togo, of the Japanese empire, and naval hero of the Russo-Japanese war. The welcome was given aboard the steamer Lusitania, at Quarantine, by representatives of the state, war and navy departments and a personal representative of Governor John A. Dix.

Following a few warm words of welcome on behalf of the nation, the delegation of Americans accompanied the distinguished Japanese in a tug to the revenue cutter Seneca, standing hard by. A few moments later the Seneca was speeding for her pier at Twenty-third street, Hudson river, where Admiral Togo was whisked away in an automobile to his hotel.

On the Way to Meet Togo.

Long before the Cunarder's big hull blackened the horizon at Sandy Hook, the Seneca was on her way to Quarantine with the welcoming party aboard. The delegation consisted of Chandler Hale, third assistant secretary of state; Captain T. M. Potts, of the navy; Major General Frederick D. Grant, commander of the department of the east; Adjutant General William Verbeck, national guard of New York, and attaches of the Japanese embassy at Washington. They found the admiral waiting to receive them when they boarded the Lusitania after two hours' stay at Quarantine. Secretary Hale delivered, on behalf of President Taft, the first brief message of welcome, and was followed by others of the deputation.

Seldom has the lower bay witnessed so remarkable a midnight scene. The whole ship sat up to bid the admiral goodbye. The rails were black with his fellow passengers as he stepped down the lowered stairway on the vessel's side to the waiting tugboat. There was a moment of silence as he trod the vessel's deck, ended by hearty American cheers.

Togo's Great Career.

The arrival of Admiral Togo renews attention to the remarkable series of naval achievements with which his name is associated. It was Togo who commanded the Japanese fleet in front of Port Arthur when the first blow was struck against Russia, resulting in such a serious crippling of Russian naval strength that her power on the sea was largely diminished, if not destroyed, at the outset. From that time forward, Togo's vessels patrolled the waters fronting Port Arthur, hemming in the remnant of the Russian fleet.

When the Russian fleet made its famous sortie under Admiral Makaroff, it was the mines laid by the fleet of Togo which blew up the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk, killing the admiral in command and a great number of others, and effectually preventing the expected relief from the Russian ships in the Pacific. Following this, came the supreme effort of the Russian government to send a naval Armada around the world, in command of Admiral Rojestvensky, to re-establish the Russian naval foothold which had been thus taken by Togo.

It was Togo who was again sent to stop the Rojestvensky fleet. The battle which ensued on May 27-28, 1905, was probably the greatest naval engagement of modern times, in the extent of destruction in men and ships and in the decisive bearing this result had upon the general progress of the war.

TRIED TO ESCAPE BEING COBBLED

Topping Opposed the Sale of Tennessee Company.

Former Chairman of Board of Directors Says There Was No Reason for the Sale of Southern Property to the Steel Trust.

New York, August 3.—John A. Topping, of the board of directors of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, before it was sold to the United States Steel Corporation, told the Stanley steel trust committee of inquiry today that he was not in favor of the plan of Grant B. Schley to sell the Tennessee company to the United States Steel Corporation in 1907.

"My mind was rather passive on the subject," said Mr. Topping. "I saw no reason from any view-point to sell the property. From Mr. Schley's view-point, I could see reasons why he should want to sell, and I aided him at his request to the extent of explaining to Lewis Case Ledyard the advantages of the property."

"Can you tell me the average difference in cost of producing a ton of pig iron in the Birmingham district and in the Superior region?" Chairman Stanley asked.

Birmingham Cost Less.

"You must take into consideration the different kind of ownership," said Mr. Topping. "I believe a fair reply would be that the Birmingham cost was $3 to $4 a ton less than the Superior cost."

Mr. Topping said that when the syndicate took hold of the Tennessee company the concern was in good financial, but poor physical, condition. It was making money, but not enough to carry on necessary improvements. The syndicate expended about six million dollars on improvements out of eight million set aside up to the time of the sale of the steel corporation.

Mr. Topping's statement that the Tennessee company sold about 60 per cent of its pig iron in the north was regarded as curious by the committee, the general market for that producing field being in the south. The witness said, however, that the company's market for rails and other products was almost exclusively in the south.

The Big Harriman Order.

"At the time of this big Harriman order (for 157,500 tons of steel rails)," Chairman Stanley inquired, "was there any company in the United States besides the Tennessee company making open hearth rails?"

"I think not."

"When John W. Gates left for Europe what provision had he made to protect his Tennessee stock?"

"Mr. Gates told me," said Mr. Topping, "that he had left sufficient funds to meet calls on the last stock subscription of 12½ per cent."

"Did you know anything about Mr. Gates offering Grant B. Schley $3,000,000 in securities to help save the firm of Moore and Schley?"

"Nothing at all."

Price Agreement Denied.

Mr. Topping was led into a discussion of the so-called "Gary dinners," where steel men assembled to discuss the trade, and his attention called to the fact that at a Gary dinner just after the Republic Company cut prices last May, he had not been present. Mr. Topping said he did not know whether he had been slighted because the Republic Company had slashed the price.

In response to questions by Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, regarding steel price agreements, Mr. Topping said he had not recognized any "golden rule" of prices such as have been talked about since Chairman Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, inaugurated his banquets.

Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and former president of the United States Steel Corporation, has been summoned to testify tomorrow.

REPUBLICANS CALLED TO SUSTAIN TAFT VETO

Washington, August 3.—Alarmed over the possibility of an attempt to pass the wool tariff revision bill over the anticipated veto of President Taft, the regular republican leaders of the senate today set about to bring all the absent republican senators to the city before next week.

The house originally passed the bill, 220 to 100. The vote in the senate was 8 to 32. This by no means would be a sufficient number to pass the bill over a veto, but the possibility in case of the absence of a number of republicans was deemed sufficient today to arouse the caution of those on guard.

HALT IS CALLED ON TOBACCO TRUST

Federal Court Forbids the Combine to Extend Powers.

Decree Is Interpreted to Mean That the Government Will Not Allow the United Cigar Stores Company to Open New Places.

New York, August 3.—The United States circuit court under whose direction the American Tobacco company will work out its dissolution, handed down this afternoon on the mandate of the federal supreme court, an order outlining conditions under which the company may perfect plans for dissolving. A clause in the order enjoins the defendants from doing any act which may further enlarge and extend the power of the combination prior to its disintegration.

Decree By Three Judges.

The order was handed down by Judges Lacombe, Ward and Noyes, following a conference held with Attorney General Wickersham, United States District Attorney Wise, counsel for the American Tobacco Company, the British American Tobacco Company and the United Cigar Stores Company.

Preliminary plans of the disintegration of the American Tobacco Company were submitted by its counsel and discussed by lawyers in the court. The three judges expressed no opinion regarding them, however.

After reciting the decree of the supreme court, the court serves notice that it will tie up the company's shipments or appoint a receiver as ordered by the higher tribunal, should counsel fail to submit an acceptable plan of dissolution by December 30, next, or sixty days therefrom if the circuit court should grant such an extension.

May Apply For Relief.

Leave is given counsel to apply for more specific directions in this regard and also to any party to apply from time to time for relief "which may seem in conformity with the judgment of the supreme court.

"Pending the dissolution of the combination," the decree reads, "and the re-creation of a new condition honestly in harmony with the law, all the defendants, their agents and servants are hereby restrained and enjoined from doing any act which might further extend or enlarge the power of the combination by any means or device whatsoever."

Counsel in the case regard the decree as enjoining the United Cigar Stores Company and the other defendants from extending their business by the opening of new stores or by contracting for unusually large quantities of supplies during the life of the American Tobacco Company.

NAVY LIEUT. BRILLHART PUTS BULLET IN HEAD

Married Eight Months Ago He Kills Self in Hotel Astor.

New York, August 3.—Lieutenant Charles E. Brillhart, of the United States navy, was found dead from a bullet wound in his room at the Hotel Astor late today. There was no circumstance to contradict the coroner's immediate opinion that the case was one of suicide.

In one of his hands, which were crossed over his body as it lay in a chair, he clutched a 32 caliber revolver, with all but one of the six chambers loaded. The bullet from the empty head chamber had struck his right temple, made its way through his head, and was found on the floor behind him.

To Mrs. Charles E. Brillhart, who is said to be his bride of but eight months, the naval lieutenant had sealed, addressed and stamped a letter which the coroner forwarded tonight without opening, to Mrs. Brillhart, at the "Cairo, Sixteenth street and Q streets, N. W., Washington, D. C."

No one at the hotel could be found who heard the shot, but it was the coroner's opinion that the lieutenant had been dead at least twelve hours. He was apparently between 35 and 40 years of age.

SHE TURNED HER HEAD AND BLINDED A MAN

San Francisco, August 3.—The turning of a woman's head may cost Daniel Mack, a vaudeville actor, his sight. Mack attempted to make his way through a dense theater crowd on Market street. A woman beside him turned her head. A long steel pin projecting from her hat passed through Mack's right eyelid, through his nose and into his left eye.

"You brute, how dare you push my hat!" the woman cried as she felt a frantic tug on her headgear. Without looking, she wrenched the pin free and disappeared in the crowd, while Mack staggered blindly about the sidewalk. Physicians ordered Mack placed in a dark room.

Wanted

An agent whose word is good

It just so happens that in the rush of other matters we have neglected to secure an agent to represent the Woods Electric in this locality. Now we are anxious to push the matter to a speedy conclusion.

In spite of our anxiety, however, we are rather particular in our choice of the man. We want a man whose standing in this community is unquestioned—whose word is as good as his bond—who will accept his responsibility seriously and regard the public from the same viewpoint of moral obligation as we do.

We want a broad man who can meet and deal with the high-class people who usually buy Woods Electrics and whose interest in his customer is as great five years hence as it is on the day the car is sold.

Such a man will have behind him the encouragement of this company, and the Woods Electric car itself is a vehicle of such quality and class that the agent who represents it will necessarily enjoy a good volume of prosperity.

DROUTH IS BROKEN IN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., August 3.—Heavy rains, which began early this morning and have been general all over this stricken section, today and tonight have broken the long drouth.

As far east as Raleigh, west to Asheville and to the border lines north and south the precipitation has been generous, with every prospect of continuation, and farmers are jubilant.

NO GOVERNMENT IN DARK REPUBLIC

Two Rival Rebel Parties Occupy the Capital of Hayti.

Port-au-Prince, Hayti, August 3.—Hayti today is without a president or organized government. The capital of the negro republic is occupied by two rival revolutionary parties headed respectively by Cincinnatus Leconte, a former minister of the interior, and Antenor Firmin, who deserted his post as Haytien minister to Great Britain to join the revolt against Simon.

A committee of public safety, composed equally of Firminists, Lecontoists and neutrals, has been organized through the initiative of the diplomatic corps, and is maintaining order. German and British marines have been landed to aid the provisional authorities. During the night there were attempts to pillage, and it was necessary to shoot several of the looters. Energetic measures prevented any serious outbreak.

Antonine Simon, the deposted president, who was compelled to withdraw from the city today, was still today on board the American schooner Bradford C. French, which is anchored in the harbor under the protection of the guns of the American cruiser Chester. Simon awaits the arrival of a fruit steamer for Kingston, Jamaica.

The committee of public safety consists of twenty-one members, one of whom is an American resident, Stephen Archer. The diplomatic corps, after organizing the committee, arranged to notify the rebel leaders outside the city, and who may soon come in, that order must be preserved in the capital.

REFORMATORY WILL BE BUILT

Fulton County Improvement Club Takes Up Movement for Institution.

The Fulton County Improvement Club, with its membership drawn from the higher classes of negroes in the county, has started a movement to erect a much-needed reformatory for young negro boys and girls.

Headed by E. R. Carter, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, colored, a campaign has been started whereby the negroes hope to receive the cooperation of both white and black people in establishing an agricultural reformatory.

They have not secured a site even, but as the need of such an institution has long been recognized, the club hopes that there will be a generous response to the cards being sent out.

Two thousand such cards have been printed, stating that $10,000 is wanted to build the reformatory and asking for a donation of not less than $3.

Judge Pendleton has urged the need of some such an institution often, and at every session of the superior criminal court Judge L. S. Roan has commented forcibly upon the criminal lack of a negro reformatory.

The negroes have now taken up the matter for themselves and will work energetically to secure the reformatory.

Poor Furniture Has One Redeeming Feature--- It Will Soon Wear Out

JERRY-BUILT FURNITURE never did add anything to the beauty or comfort or economy of home-life. It is an object of contempt and apology. Men and women educated up to the modern standard of taste are ashamed of it. Therefore, it is clearly thriftier and happier to buy well-constructed RELIABLE FURNITURE gradually---making your home by degrees---as your means permits---instead of wasting your money by putting it into a mass of sham stuff that is "cheap."

We wish to underline the foregoing.

It is the only sound position for the public to maintain in its relation to household art. The first-rate connoisseur regards any other course a glaring folly and a reckless extravagance.

We have been on our guard against inferior workmanship. The stock here was selected with pride, knowledge and thoroughness. It is worth YOUR while to follow the example of our guiding principle when you buy FURNITURE.

ALL OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

Atlanta Real Estate Men's Association Has Very Successful Year.

By a unanimous vote the Atlanta Real Estate Men's Association has re-elected all its old officers for another year's service.

Ralph O. Cochran is president of the organization; W. A. Foster, vice president; H. W. Dillin, secretary, and J. W. Dobbins, treasurer.

In discussing the motion to re-elect all the old officers for another term and to make the election unanimous, several members of the association paid the officers high compliments as to the efficient manner in which they have discharged the duties of their various offices during the first year of the organization's existence.

The association is now in a most prosperous condition. There are something over 170 members, all of whom are in good standing, the organization has been affiliated with the national association, and has played not an inconspicuous part in many matters of interest not only to Atlanta, but the state-at-large.

SHOCKED BY EXPLOSION WOMEN ASK DAMAGES

Their Health Badly Injured, They Say in Their Petition.

Two unique damage suits for $10,000 each have been filed against the Western and Atlantic railroad, the legal action having grown out of the explosion of a car of dynamite on June 15.

The suits were instituted by two women, Mrs. Lura Belle Tribble, of 58 Bellwood avenue, and Mrs. Nellie Allen, of 100 Grafton street, both residences being 100 yards and more from the scene of the explosion.

Both Mrs. Tribble and Mrs. Allen allege that they were expecting the birth of a child, and that the shock of the explosion resulted in serious injury to their health.

Mrs. Allen says she saw bits of wreckage forced into the air, while the body of a man was thrown thirty feet from the car.

BOSTON MAYOR PLEASED WITH GEORGIA MELON

That Boston has awakened to the realization that there is something which can vie with the delectable baked bean as an article of gustatory delight is evinced by the following mayor-to-mayor telegram received at the city hall yesterday:

"Boston, Mass.

"Watermelon cutting by Atlanta Ad Men last night in Copley square a great success. Thanks and congratulations.

(Signed) "WALTER L. COLLINS,
"Acting Mayor."

This recognition of the merits of the Georgia watermelon, brought about by the efforts of the Atlanta Ad Men, delighted Mayor Winn, who is much interested in the trip of the Atlanta club and has done his utmost to further their plan to secure the 1913 convention of the national body for this city.

Life-Termer Gains Freedom.

LaGrange, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) After holding John Brown, a negro whitewasher of this city in jail for six days, Sheriff O. H. Florence today released the prisoner because Warden Griffith, of the state penitentiary at Columbia, S. C., refused to send an officer to claim the prisoner.

Brown escaped from the state penitentiary of South Carolina 17 years ago.

"Yas, sah, Jedge Briles, we's the Rounders' choir, and dat woman jes' had us pulled caze we sung 'Dat Heavenly Chord' under her winder."

Three of Darktown's darkest all began making explanations in unison at the morning police court yesterday morning, telling how they had not been creating a disturbance while drunk on the street.

"Jedge, dem men's bin raising a row 'round mer house fer de las' week, and ah jes' ain't bin able to run 'em off a-tall. Dey hangs 'roun' dere tryin' ter sing an' dey can't any mo' dan my ole cat. An' dis mawnin', bout 1 erclocks, dey come 'round der again, and ah jes' sez to mahself, sez ah, 'dem men's bin foolin' 'round' heah long ernough, Mandy Williams; 'en den ah called de officers."

Evidently it was a case of misplaced affections so far as the three negro men were concerned, for Mandy was gazing upon them with an air extreme hauteur which almost approached venomous animosity. Mandy was able seconded by her husband, who also thought that it was a case of misplaced affections.

"It wuz dis way, jedge," one of the members of the choir explained. "Dat 'oman's bin makin' eyes at us boys fer two or three weeks, and we jes' decided dat we'd show her how much we 'preciated her 'tentions. So all uv us, suh, we'se a regular choir—went 'roun' dere, two er three times, and she liked it. But when old Bill Williams come home las' night, after Mandy thought he'd gone ter wuk, she jes' thought she had ter do sumpin' ter bluff 'im, so she went and had her officer git us."

"It seems to me that there is something hidden in this case," remarked the judge. "But it cannot be sung in court. I will just give you boys time to practice something besides 'That Heavenly Chord' while you are doing thirty days on the rockpile."

YOUNG BRIDE-TO-BE BACKS DOWN; FINDS GIRL TO TAKE HER PLACE

Lavonia, Ga., August 3.—(Special.)—To be 45 years old and fairly good-looking, but without a wife; to be engaged to a girl in a town only a few miles away and the courtship done entirely by correspondence; to have the long-distance fiancee back down and refuse to have the ceremony performed on the day of the arrival of her lover; to have her relent and consent to introduce him to several of her girl friends in order that he might not go back to his home without some chance to offset the jeers that might otherwise greet him; to meet after a house-to-house canvass a young lady who fell in love with him at first sight, and he with her; to propose, be accepted, change the marriage license to the new name and be married and start home on a quiet honeymoon in seclusion—that is the record of Mr. John Carlton, of Lavonia.

Miss Bessie Cook, of Bowersville, was his first "engaged." He arrived in her home village a few days ago armed with a license and assured by her promises in writing to unite with him in matrimony. When she saw him, however, she declined and begged off—not on account of any homeliness of her ex-intended, but for other reasons. Mr. Carlton was not to be outdone; he had come to Bowersville for a wife and was going to carry back a bride to introduce to the chaps awaiting his return in Lavonia.

Miss Cook, to make up for her refusal, offered to introduce him to her unmarried young lady friends. He agreed, and with her he made a literally house-to-house canvass. After visiting several homes where there were young ladies, he was presented to Miss Cecil Bennett, an attractive, worthy and winsome young lady. Though Mr. Carlton is 45, he is a wooer and a winner.

It was a case of love on exposure, and there was a quick proposal, a prompt acceptance, and the marriage was performed inside of ten hours from the minute he first saw his bride. They left for the home of the groom in Lavonia.

NEAR BEER MEN HAVE BIG SCARE

Many Are Not Complying With Ordinance Relating to Screens.

The licenses of half the "near" beer saloons of the city trembled dangerously yesterday afternoon, when Alderman A. H. Van Dyke called the attention of the police department to their violation of an ordinance which provides a penalty of $200 fine, thirty days' imprisonment and ipso facto revoking of the license. It relates to screens, doors and other obstructions to the view in such places.

The ordinance was introduced by Alderman Spratling and passed on May 17, 1909. In spite of the two years it has been in force, no cases are known to have been made for its violation. Alderman Van Dyke, who is a member of the police committee of council, was going to the station yesterday afternoon when he noticed a stained glass and wood screen in a saloon at 151 Decatur street.

Chief Jennings at once dispatched Call Officer Gorman to arrest the proprietor, Victor Brown, a Greek. Brown explained that he had been in the place only three days, and that it had been fitted up by the brewery, which caused some remark in court, as they are supposed to be well acquainted with legal requirements. Brown was dismissed after a promise to remove the screen "in one little minute."

The ordinance states that there shall be no obstruction of view in saloons, all glass shall be transparent, and provides that in addition to fine and imprisonment, "the license covering such a place shall be revoked ipso facto, where it appears that the construction was known to the proprietor, and has been up a sufficient length of time for him to have known it if exercising proper supervision." Chief Jennings has issued a special order calling the attention of the men to this ordinance.

O'Neal May Go Free.

LaGrange, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) Attorney M. U. Mooty, representing W. R. O'Neal, who is alleged to have received a fortune from an Oakland, Cal., man, and later developed a check-passing mania, has received information from O'Neal's mother, living at Bainbridge, to the effect that she will come to LaGrange the latter part of this week. Mrs. O'Neal will attempt a settlement of the checks which her son passed in this city, which were returned by the Atlanta bank on which they were drawn, marked "no funds." At present there are fourteen warrants in the hands of Sheriff O. H. Florence drawn against O'Neal.

First Bale at Cuthbert.

Cuthbert, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) The first bale of this season's cotton was brought in here yesterday by T. D. Hudson, of the Trinity neighborhood, a settlement about six miles northeast of the city. It weighed 430 pounds and was ginned by the Cuthbert Oil and Fertilizer Company. The bidding started among the buyers quickly raised the price to twenty cents, at which figure it was purchased by L. C. Hunt. Several more bales are looked for in the next day or two, as the hot sunshine is causing it to open right away.

CONROY SAID WIFE DANCED AND WOULDN'T WASH DISHES

Savannah, Ga., August 3.—(Special.) Because he thought his wife danced too much, James Conroy, struck her several times as she left a Broughton street store where she is employed, and as a result was given three months on the farm by Recorder Schwarz today.

Mrs. Alice Conroy declared her husband had assaulted her without the slightest provocation and but for the interference of pedestrians she would have been very badly beaten.

Conroy's only defense was that his wife spent all of her idle time dancing and would not wash dishes nor attend to her other household duties.

COTTON MADE ADVANCE NEARLY $2 PER BALE

Renewal of Bull Support and Covering of Shorts Caused Firmness.

New York, August 3.—The cotton market showed a decidedly firmer tone today, owing to a renewal of bull support and active covering of shorts, which resulted in advances of nearly $2 per bale. The close was steady and last prices showed a net gain from 32 to 37 points, being within a point or two of the best on the active positions.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6@11 points, in response to higher Liverpool cables. At the start buyers seemed to find all the cotton offering that they wanted, and early fluctuations were somewhat irregular, with active months easing back to about the closing figures of yesterday, but the buying was of a good character, offerings soon became lighter and the market turned firm.

Shorts became increasingly active buyers on a scale up, and the market during the afternoon was very strong and excited, owing to rumors that one of the most prominent of the old crop bull leaders had formed a very powerful pool for the purpose of supporting prices. The talk was that this combination was the most strongly financed that had ever entered the market, and with the feeling more or less general that the short interest was overextended following the recent sensational break, buyers showed more confidence than for weeks past, and after new positions had sold through 11¼ cents, stop loss orders were uncovered.

August contracts sold up to 12.49, 40 points above last night's close and 85 points above the recent low record, while December contracts, at 11.35, showed a net advance of 38 points and a recovery of 53 points, or $2.65 per bale from the low level of the week.

In addition to the rumors regarding a new bull pool, the market was influenced by smaller offerings from the south, and more numerous reports of crop damage, based upon wet weather or insects.

Receipts today, 371 bales, against 659 last week and 1,033 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 322 bales, against 253 last year, and at Houston, 1,904 bales, against 476 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 12.60; middling gulf, 12.85; no sales.

Cotton futures opened quiet and steady, 5 points up to 5 down. Cables were much higher than due, but did not meet with a good response in the local market. Reports of damage by army worms in Alabama and Texas were freely circulated but were balanced by th shutting down of mills in Fall river. The weather map was favorable, as no rain was reported in the central portions of the belt, while the Atlantics got good showers. Soon after the first call, the more active months were 4 to 6 points up, but short selling increased and at the end of the first half hour of business, prices were 3 to 5 points under yesterday's close.

The decline brought out heavy buying orders and it was evident that strong people had placed orders all over the ring. Gradually the market did better and took on something of a manipulated look. Weak shorts ran to cover and ring scalpers went long for a turn. A good volume of business was being done by the middle of the morning, but the markets was not at all excited. The rise continued right up to the noon hour when prices were 18 to 25 points up from the lowest and 15 to 20 points over yesterday's close. Damage from army worms in Alabama and Texas and formation of a new bill alique were the bullish features of the gossip of the morning.

The market was very steady on general buying in the afternoon session. At 2 o'clock prices were 27 to 33 points over yesterday's close.

The market closed steady at a net advance of 34 to 44 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, August 3.—The cotton goods markets were moderately steady and generally quiet. Yarns are being offered at lower figures and bids are being submitted to mills more freely. A large dress goods sale will be inaugurated next week by the H. B. Clafton Company. Raw silk is quiet and steady.

The sales of the day were 10,000 bales, of which 1,000 were for speculation and export and included 9,100 American. Receipts 100 bales, all American. Futures opened quiet and steady, and closed steady.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, August 3.—Following the better tone of yesterday, after the bureau, our market with good cables at the outset showed strength and this, with oversold condition, induced short covering. Early in the day, the trading was largely experimental, but later the improving tendency was pronounced and large buying orders easily advanced prices sharply. This danger to the short side was not unexpected, but the trade is averse to believe that the circulated reports of damage from an overplus of rain, and from the weevil has yet been of consequence. However, the covering demand was effective in sharply advancing prices, which were held to the close on active and general trading.

STOCKS SOLD HEAVILY IN LAST TRADING HOUR

Prices Were Driven to the Lowest Level of the Present Movement.

New York, August 3.—The stock market today made several attempts to recover from its heaviness of the preceding session and some ground was regained in the course of the day, but the weight of the selling movement in the final hour drove prices to the lowest level of the present movement. In the initial trading the list sustained further declines, despite the better tone of our securities in London.

There was marked weakness in the coppers, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and a number of industials of minor importance. The decline was arrested for a time in the early session, when buying of the standard stocks and speculative leaders impelled extensive short covering and prices soon were well above yesterday's final quotations. On the rise, however, the market became very dull, a fact that was not regarded as a hopeful augury for the bull account.

During the frequent periods of stagnation on the exchange today gossip was busy with the causes or reasons which have brought about the reversal in the market. Rumor assigned the short selling to the operations of a western grain trader, while the liquidation was attributed in part to the precipitated offerings of a local operator who is currently reported to have suffered severely on the bull side of the cotton market. Neither rumor was confirmable, although both possessed the elements of plausibility.

Among the incidents of the day which tended to exercise a restraining influence on bullish activity was the further weakness of Standard Oil on the "curb," the stock making a net decline of 21½ points on unusually heavy offerings. News from Washington that the attorney general is soon to submit to the treasury department his report dealing with an inquiry into the formation of a "securities company," recently organized as an adjunct to one of the largest national banks in the country, also furnished food for reflection. Yet another deterrent was found in dispatches from New England telling of the indefinite shutting down of perhaps the largest cotton mill in the Fall River district, while further curtailment was reported by the textile concerns operating in North Carolina.

Heaviness in the copper shares was partly explained by the reports presented by several leading companies. Much of the day's crop news was of an unfavorable character.

An offset to these adverse factors was found in cables from London, which stated that a possible basis of agreement in the Moroccan situation had been reached. This news evoked no response at the British capital.

The bond market again followed the stock market in its irregularity. Total sales, par value, were $2,035,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT PRICES SOARED NEARLY TWO CENTS

Relief That Russian Export Surplus Would Show Decrease Caused Advance.

Chicago, August 3.—Predictions that the export surplus in Russia this season would be only 80,000,000 bushels, against a recent average of more than 200,000,000 bushels, took the wheat market aloft today. There were persistent assertions, too, that the presence of black rust in Canadian fields had been confirmed by laboratory tests. Closing prices were firm at a net advance of 1½@1⅝ to 1⅞c. Corn finished 1⅛ to 1⅜c higher than last night, oats up ⅝@⅞ to ¾@⅞c and hog products varying from 2½c lower to a gain of 22½.

The news regarding the dubious prospect for wheat in Russia came from London and was, for that reason, not credited as fully as though from a source more direct. Nevertheless, the radical nature of the cut in the estimate of the probable foreign shipments from the czar's country aroused the bulls. Sentiment in favor of higher prices grew materially as the day advanced and at no time suffered a serious check.

Black rust rumors would not down. In this connection one crop expert went on record with an opinion that the three chief northwestern wheat states would raise less this year than for almost a decade. Then came statements that the Canadian government station at Brandon had scientifically ascertained the existence of black rust spores on selected samples of wheat there. On top of this, Duluth reported the working of 45 boatloads for export. Altogether, it was decidedly a bad day for the bears. During the session September ranged from 90¾ to 92⅝, and closed 1½@1⅝c net higher at 92.

The corn crowd had its own share of bad crop news. For example, according to a leading authority, Nebraska promised less than half an average output, even with ideal weather from now on. In consequence, several big Chicago houses made themselves conspicuous by the size of their purchases in the pit. September price changes ran from 64⅜ to 66, with the close firm 1⅛c up at 65¾. Cash grades were in better demand. No. 2 yellow finished at 65@65½.

Oats advanced because of an improved call from shippers and on account of support from corn bulls. High and low figures touched by the September option was 43 and 41⅝. The close 42⅝@42½ showed a net gain of ⅝@⅞.

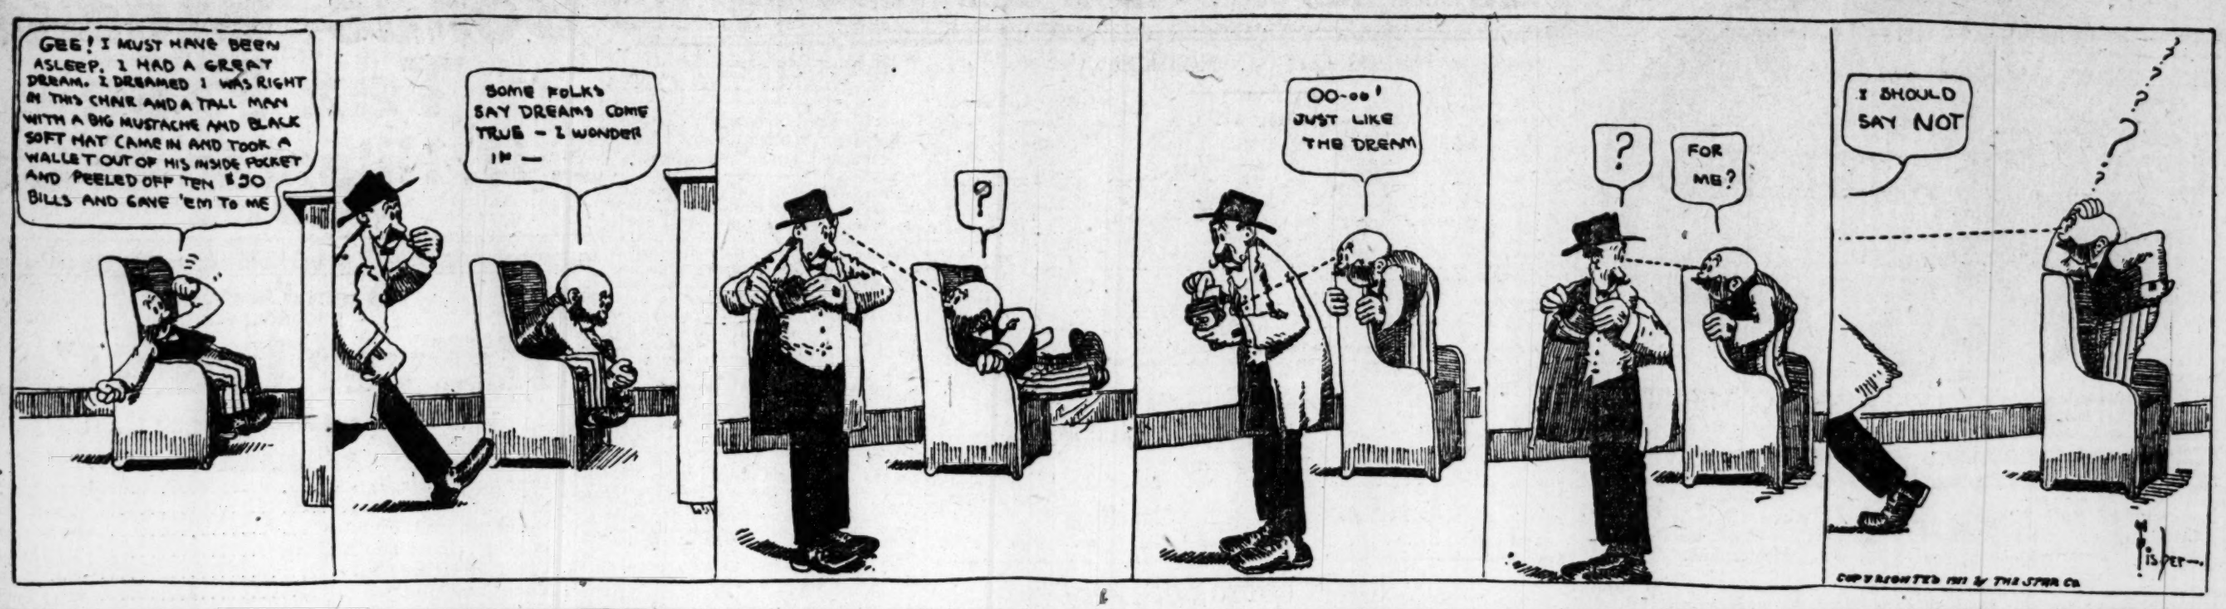

Provisions averaged higher in view of the fact that for the first time in a long while the week's packing west exhibited a decrease as compared with the corresponding period a year ago. At the end of the day pork had risen 2½@5c to 22½c, lard was 2½c off to 2½c up and ribs were strung out from 2½c decline to a greater cost of 20c.

UNCLE DUDLEY, President.
JOSEPH WARDIN, Vice President.
LORING BROWN,
Chairman Executive Committee.
T. M. POOLE, Secretary.

By Joseph Wardin.

Now that the egg basket is beginning to show a falling off, the older fowls looking ragged and loose feathers becoming plentiful in the houses and runs, the poultry yard will be less attractive than of late. But to make poultry profitable, the birds must not be neglected at this time. A little extra attention will help them to get through the month as soon, and with as little damage, as possible.

Generally speaking, it is well for the fowls to begin to change their feathers about July. If they commence sooner the moult is only partial, the feathers coming off again freely in September or October; or if the moult begins very late, the cold nights and often wet days cause it to be prolonged.

To some slight extent the moult can be hastened, or, if desired, postponed. It may, for instance, be wished to have a bird over the moult and ready for a fall fair by a certain date, or it may be required to keep the hens laying as long as possible, so that there shall be very little interval between their ceasing and the pullets that were hatched in the spring commencing.

How To Do It.

To defer the moult the hens must roost in a cool place. To hasten the moult the fowls must be placed in a warm and sheltered house, when the increasing temperature will cause them to shed their feathers quickly. If the hens are of an incubating variety the moult can be brought about more quickly by allowing them, when they become broody, to sit for ten days or so on a China or other nest egg, and then removing them to a small conned pen. This will cause them to drop their feathers at once and quickly grow new plumage.

With regard to food, fowls, when moulting, need strong stimulants. They should have plenty of fresh, green food. The ordinary grain can be supplemented by a handful of sunflower seed about three times a week. A little sulphate of iron in the drinking water does good at this season, care being taken not to give it in metal drinking vessels. Fowls eat less when moulting than when they are laying. Indeed, just as the moult commences some birds will hardly touch food, and will remain on the perch in the morning or mope in a corner of the house. Cleanliness must be specially observed, otherwise the fallen feathers will contain a lot of vermin, and the poultry house will become unpleasant and unhealthy.

Access to Shelter.

The birds must have access to shelter during rainy weather. A thorough soaking, when they are nearly free of feathers, is apt to result in an attack of roup, or cause a chill that may throw the bird back for weeks.

But a hen that gets through the moult early and quickly will almost invariably prove a good winter layer. Sometimes when a fowl is in the midst of the moult it will be seen constantly picking at one particular place on its body. This may be caused by one or more of the new feathers failing to pass through the skin and causing great irritation. If a needle is passed under the covered end of the feather, it will enable it to be drawn above the skin.

Answers to Correspondents.

Willie Striplin, Heflin, Ala.—Dear Uncle Joe: I come to you for help for the first time. Will you please tell me what is the matter with my little turkeys, and what to do for them, as they have a strange disease to me. They begin to swell on each side of the nose and keep swelling until their eyes close and then sling their heads and froth runs out of their nose and mouth, and it seems like they are choked. It is a very lingering disease and they eat to the very last just as heartily as they did before taking the disease. I feed on boiled cabbage, corn bread and black pepper. They are 5 or 6 weeks old before they take it. I separated from well ones at first, carried all of last year's hatching away from the house as soon as taken off and now one of them has it. It does not make any sore at all—just a swelling in a clear puff. Have looked your pages over, but haven't found any disease like it, and all that take it die.

Answer: Am afraid your little turkeys have taken cold; in fact, all symptoms described indicate this. The cold may have been contracted when poults were taken from the nest or shortly after. It is an easy matter for a turkey to take cold, and if this cold is neglected it is a very hard matter to get rid of it. A cold may take a long or short time to develop, depending somewhat on the weather.

For this trouble, in mild form I have found nothing better than giving small doses of quinine and painting the exposed outside surface of the throat, between the wattles and around the outside portions of jaws with tincture of iodine.

You need not apologize for coming to me with your troubles. If I can help you I am only too glad to do so.

August Davis, Greenwood, Fla., Box 60.—Dear Uncle Joe: I saw your great offer in the paper the other day and I would be very glad for you to send me some of your good remedies to destroy some of the mites; they are so bad we can hardly raise any chickens. We have not raised any chickens in three years. The mites are all in my house. I can hardly rest for the mites.

Answer: Well, if I ever! A man with a houseful of mites, mites so bad, in fact, that he cannot rest for them. Well, I don't envy you these sweltering hot dogdays. Shivers! It makes me creep to think about it. Get a 25-cent bottle of black flag and follow directions as to applying in your dwelling house.

My advice is to set a match to your hen house and burn it up and build a new one at once, away from the site of the old one, and commence fighting mites from the start next season, and remember this, when you begin hatching next season: Grease every chick when taken from the nest, and every week thereafter for at least six weeks. Dust the mother hen when put with the biddies and every week thereafter for six weeks, with Uncle Joe's lice powder. Whitewash, dust, and clean all summer and you will raise some chickens.

Coffee.

New York, August 3.—The market for coffee futures opened quiet at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points. European cables were lower, but Brazil reported steady markets and prices here improved during the day on covering of shorts and bull support in the autumn or winter deliveries. There was some talk of Brazilian buying orders and private cables from Santos claimed that shorts for August and September shipment to Europe were covering. The close was firm at a decline of 1 point on August, but generally unchanged to 10 points higher.

Havre, after showing a net loss of half franc, rallied partly, closing ¼ franc lower. Hamburg was ¼ lower to ¼ higher. Rio unchanged at 7$250; Santos, unchanged; fours, 7$050; sevens, 6$600.

Alleged Use of Money and Fraud by Antis Source of Inquiry.

Austin, Texas, August 3.—An investigation of alleged fraudulent voting and use of money in the state-wide prohibition election in Texas, July 22, which the anti-prohibitionists won, was passed by the senate today by a vote of 16 to 11. The senate committee is empowered to swear witnesses and is directed to investigate in addition to the alleged frauds, 'the amount of money spent by any association or persons in opposing the prohibition amendment."

ADVERTISING TALKS.

of The Philadelphia North American.

The fact that Mr. Johnson is willing to sign the cartoons and that The North American is also willing to have him do so is a pretty good indication of the character of the advertising.

THE COPY IS EDUCATIONAL—that is, each cartoon tells a story about the MERITS of the Ivins products, and a few well written paragraphs are printed under the cartoon EMPHASIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF BUYING ONLY PURE FOODS.

The whole plan is very creditable to the Ivins Baking Co. and to Mr. Foley. It has had a lot to do with EDUCATING the Philadelphia public to the necessity of PURE FOOD PRODUCTS and the necessity also of leaving severely alone articles that are not SPECIFICALLY GUARANTEED by the manufacturer.

Incidentally, it has been a very PROFITABLE CAMPAIGN for the Ivins Baking Co., as the business has INCREASED steadily each month.

The value of EDUCATIONAL ADVERTISING is becoming better known all the time, and the success of the Ivins Company in getting Philadelphians to ask grocers for their products is a practical instance that it pays.

FRANCIS H. LEGGETT & CO., wholesale grocers, of New York, are also conducting an educational newspaper advertising campaign on pure food products.

Their advertising copy is not illustrated at all—it is just STRAIGHT-FROM-THE-SHOULDER, CONVINCING ARGUMENT, and it has been very successful.

This idea might well be copied in every community by the manufacturers of pure food products of whatever nature.

BEAUTIFUL FALLOW DEER ATTRACTING ATTENTION

One of the newcomers at the Gress Zoo.

One of the prettiest members of the zoo at Grant Park is the new fallow deer which recently arrived.

The graceful fawn-colored animal, with his pretty white spots, is a conspicuous inmate of the same run with the antelope. He is very shy and timid yet, but many visitors find pleasure in watching him.

TARIFF SLASHED ON COTTON GOODS

ers and a charge of Representative Prouty, of Iowa, republican insurgent, supported by Representatives McCall, of Massachusetts, and Hill, of Connecticut, that the Underwood bill made enormous increases in the tariff on certain cotton cloth manufactured in southern mills, marked the closing hours of debate on the cotton bill.

Former Republican Speaker Cannon upheld the democratic caucus policy, declaring that "this is a government by party organization," while Representative Lenroot, republican insurgent, earnestly defended the cotton measure and denounced the attempts of his fellow republicans to make it appear that the bill revised any schedule upward.

Representative Prouty said until today he had intended to support the cotton bill, but, "figuring with his pencil," he found that the ad valorem rates on cotton cloth valued at between 7 and 12 cents, a type of cloth manufactured almost entirely in southern mills, had actually been increased as high as 250 per cent above the Payne bill rates.

Underwood Defends Bill.

Democratic Leader Underwood replied that ad valorem tariff schedules had to be fixed on an average basis, placing certain rates between two lines, top and bottom, and that Mr. Prouty had picked out the single schedule under which there was an apparent increase. He said that under this schedule last year just $1,040 of the $700,000,000 worth of cotton goods consumed in this country were imported. He claimed that Mr. Prouty's charge was too trivial to be treated seriously.

Representative Harrison, of New York, a member of the ways and means committee, calling the charge "picayunish and contemptible," said, "I am not a southern man, but I absolutely repudiate the insinuation that any sectionalism or favor has been shown in this bill."

Representative Payne moved that the bill be recommitted to be held in committee until the tariff board reports at the regular session in December. The motion was lost without roll call. Then the bill was adopted without amendment.

SENATOR PERCY TO STEP DOWN

Defeated, Percy Says He'll Resign at Next Session of Assembly.

Greenville, Miss., August 3.—In a statement issued tonight, United States Senator Leroy Percy, who was defeated in Tuesday's primary for renomination, announces that he will tender his resignation at the next session of the legislature.

The next session of the Mississippi legislature will be convened in January of next year. Senator Percy's tenure of office would not have expired until March 4, 1913.

Senator Percy's intention was made known to a gathering of his friends on the lawn of the Percy home, his first public utterance since Tuesday's primary, when he was defeated in his candidacy for renomination by former Governor James K. Vardaman, whom he defeated in the legislative caucus of last year in the contest for the appointment to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. J. McLaurin.

"The returns from the senatorial election are decisive," Senator Percy said to his fellow townsmen. "In no uncertain manner the voters have indorsed Vardamanism and all that it stands for in Mississippi. The result calls for no comment o rcriticism, certainly no complaint from me.

"That the people of the state deserve the consequences which will follow this election I am unwilling to say. An indictment so severe I would draw against no people, but, believing in a government of majorities, I have no desire to thwart their expressed will."

Continuing, Senator Percy recalled his proposal, after his election by the legislature and following the charges of irregularities, that a primary be called in effect to indorse or repudiate his election, and his offer to retire if he was not indorsed. It was decided by the state executive committee that the election was not possible.

"I entered the senatorial race through no personal ambition, seeking only the most effective method of preventing the triumph of Vardamanism," Mr. Percy added.

The Passing Throng

By E. C. Bruffey.

Colonel Sam Altmeyer, for many years a prominent citizen and a leading business man of Macon, but now one of the industrious and energetic upbuilders of Jacksonville's commercial life, was a guest at the Kimball yesterday, and during the day was given a hearty handshake by many of his old Georgia friends.

"I found it necessary," said Colonel Altmeyer, talking with old friends, "to run up to Macon on business and I couldn't find it in my heart to come into the old state without taking a look once more at Atlanta. Yes, the city is growing wonderfully. I have kept up with the changes pretty well through the Atlanta papers. I never miss getting The Constitution with my beakfast, but I was not prepared for what I have seen since I came. Traveling men with whom I come in contact have been telling me of the great changes, too, but they have not told me the half. Say, what's in this Macon capital movement? Anything? You see I've never sold my property in Macon and while I've been looking at the contemplated change in a humorous way, I've been told Macon has set her heart on the capital and is working in dead earnest. Funnier things than that change have taken place. Down in Jacksonville we are pushing along nicely and the city is thriving. By the way, do you recall the time the capital of Florida was offered Jacksonville and Jacksonville refused it? That's a historical fact. Maybe Atlanta's in the same way—don't care whether or not the capital stays here. Jacksonville has long ago ceased to be a winter resort and is now one of the most energetic and progressive commercial towns on the southern map. We have plenty of money down our way and there is a busy place for every dollar. The citizens are thoroughly imbued with the coming greatness of Jacksonville and every one is bending his every energy to make the place even greater than our most sanguine expectations, if that were possible."

During the day Colonel Altmeyer dropped in to see Senator Terrell. Between the senator and the Jacksonville wholesale merchant there has long been a strong bond of friendship. That friendship had its inception when Senator Terrell was a candidate for attorney general and has ever grown stronger. When it was Governor Terrell, Sam Altmeyer was a member of the governor's staff with the rank of colonel and has with him yet his uniform which gave him a military appearance during the Terrell administration.

Colonel Altmeyer is also a great baseball fan and was at one time treasurer of the old Southern League and was financially interested in the Macon ball team when the late George Burbage, of Jacksonville, was manager.

"Say, what's the matter with Atlanta's ball team?" he remarked as Ed Brown, manager of the Kimball and an old friend of the colonel, asked something about Bugs Raymond signing with Atlanta. "Honest, it's the first time I ever knew Atlanta to occupy a cellar position. When I was in baseball and Charley Genslinger was president of the league, Atlanta was always up there within striking distance of the pennant. Birmingham in those days had a mortgage on the cellar and now she is reaching out for the flag. Oh, well, times sure have changed, and another change is soon due, baseballically."

Walter Cornett, an old Atlanta boy now deputy clerk of the United States court at Athens and who has been in the city for a week past visiting old friends and relatives, left yesterday for his post of duty in the Classic City. Mr. Cornett is pleased with his present location and says he finds plenty to do the year round.

Frank Logan Knowles, of Jersey City, a young member of the bar in Jersey state, is in the city visiting his aunt, Mrs. Thomas C. Logan, on South Pryor street. Mr. Knowles was born in Atlanta and went east with his parents when he was a child. He was graduated a few months ago from the Columbia Law school and will enter upon the practice of his profession in Jersey City, where his parents reside. This is his first visit to Atlanta since going east.

AFTER SINKING SPELL JOHN W. GATES RALLIES

Paris, August 3.—John W. Gates had a sudden sinking spell late this afternoon, similar to those he experienced on two previous occasions. For a moment it seemed that his pulse had stopped, but through his remarkable power of recuperation he rallied satisfactorily.

The sinking spell today followed a chill. The family hastily summoned all the physicians who have been in attendance and strong restoratives were resorted to, with the desired effect of bringing the patient around. The attack, however, seems to have affected Mr. Gates' condition more than on the previous occasions, and tonight he is not quite so strong and his lungs are a little more congested. Nevertheless, the physicians believe there is no very immediate danger, and still cherish a hope for Mr. Gates' recovery.

So ill was Mr. Gates that a rumor gained circulation that he was dead. Charles G. Gates, his son, gave prompt denial to this.

$18 ROUND TRIP AUGUST 12 L&N

EAST LAKE DRIVE

This road is now being paved with a dustless macadam all the way from Ponce de Leon Avenue through Druid Hills to the Country Club at East Lake.

When finished this will be one of the most attractive drives around Atlanta; property fronting on it will advance rapidly in value. We can now sell beautiful lots, or tracts, on the drive at $10 to $20 a front foot—all running back from 300 to 700 feet in depth.

Next Spring these tracts will sell for a great deal more—buyers, at present prices, will be able to count up a snug dividend in about six months.

chairman of the ways and means committee, he is the ways and means committee. The speaker used to be high mogul in the house. Today the speaker is the servant, not the master."

Bryan Says He's Used to It.

Mount Pleasant, Iowa, August 3.—William Jennings Bryan, speaking at a chautauqua here today, referred to Representative Underwood's statement in the house yesterday as follows.

"George Fred Williams was the first man to read me out of the democratic party, but this has happened so often that I am used to it. The last time was yesterday."

Mr. Bryan did not mention Underwood by name. He declared in his lecture that he would never again run for the presidency. He reiterated his charge that Roosevelt and other republicans had bodily stolen many of his political theories and policies for their platforms.
